GOV. MARSHALL TO BE CALLED IN

He Will be Asked to Pardon George Isaacs to Straighten Bigamy Tangle.

LINGENFELDER HAS DIVORCE

Myrtle Lingenfelder Free to Marry Isaacs When he is Free of First Spouse.

The pardoning power of Governor Thomas R. Marshall will be called in to disentangle the three-cornered bigamy case in which William Lingenfelder, known here for seven years as Ed Sloan, was one of the central figures.

Gov. Marshall will be asked to pardon George Isaacs of Indianapolis, the man who ran away with Lingenfelder's first wife. Isaacs is serving a sentence of a hundred and eighty days in the Marion county work house for a statutory charge to which he pleaded guilty in order to escape prosecution for bigamy.

Judge Collins of the Indianapolis police court and Oscar Miller, humane officer of Marion county, will recommend that Gov. Marshall release Isaacs, their theory being that his sentence has served the purpose for which it was given.

Isaacs was arrested on the charge of bigamy several months ago. In Indianapolis police court it was shown that Isaacs had left Lola Isaacs, his first wife, eleven years ago and that he had lived a number of years with Myrtle Lingenfelder and had had four children as a result of the first union. The court found Isaacs guilty of a statutory offense and gave him a workhouse sentence.

Since Isaacs has been in the work house, William Lingenfelder, who married Barbara Brown here as Ed Sloan, has obtained a divorce from his first wife, Myrtle Lingenfelder, who eloped with Isaacs while he was a boarder at their home in Indianapolis.

Whenever Isaacs is pardoned by Gov. Marshall and is released from the work house, his attorneys will file suit for divorce from Mrs. Isaacs No. 1, Lola Isaacs, who says she is a charity worker in Columbus, Ohio. Then Isaacs will go to the marriage license clerk in Indianapolis and get a license to marry Mrs. Lingenfelder, who passed as Mrs. Isaacs for almost ten years.

RUSHVILLE HAS NO FEDERAL BUILDING

But This Postoffice Handles More Mail Than Greensburg, Shelbyville or Columbus.

NEWSPAPERS COMMENT ON IT

Neighboring newspapers have called attention to the fact that Greensburg handles more mail than Columbus and that Shelbyville handles more mail than both of them but still has no federal building. To make the comparison further Rushville handles more mail than Shelbyville, or any other one of the towns mentioned.

Reports of the recent mail weighing showed eight tons handled from Greensburg, ten tons from Shelbyville and seven and a half tons from Columbus, and the Rushville office reported about eleven tons handled. And Rushville has no federal building either.

RAILROAD TOWEL DOOMED

It is Ordered Abolished From Trains, Stations And Vessels.

The common towel was ordered abolished from railroad cars, vessels, all other interstate vehicles and from stations by Secretary MacVeagh, of the U. S. treasury department, yesterday in an amendment to the interstate quarantine regulation. This action follows closely the abolition of the common drinking cup from use on interstate carriers. Towels may be used again only after being sterilized in boiling water.

ANNOUNCES EXAM IN CIVIL SERVICE

Bureau of Education Wants Teachers For Chief of Field Service in Rural Education.

POSITION PAYS $4000 A YEAR

County Superintendent, C. M. George has received notice from the Civil Service Commission announcing an open competitive examination for chief of field service in rural education, for men only. From the register of eligibles resulting from this examination certification will be made to fill a vacancy in this position at $4000 per annum, in the Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, for service in the field and vacancies in positions requiring similar qualifications as they may occur. The examination will be held January 13.

As a prerequisite for consideration for this position applicants must have graduated from a college or university of recognized standing, and have had at least three years' practical experience as superintendent of schools.

PETITIONS SENT TO COMMISSION

207 Signatures For Better Service on L. E. & W. to Newcastle Are Obtained Here.

ONE PASSENGER IS WANTED

The four petitions which have been at the four Rushville drug stores for a week or more to get signatures for a better service on the branch of the L. E. & W. operating between here and Newcastle were gathered up today and sent to the railroad commission in Indianapolis. There were a total of two hundred and seven signatures on the four petitions, divided as follows: Lytle's, 30; Hargrove & Mullin, 63; Johnson's, 26; Wolcott's, 88.

The petition requests the commission to compel the L. E. & W. to operate two trains between Rushville and Newcastle daily, one a regular passenger. The only train on the line now is a mixed train, and its schedule is so arranged that people living in the small towns along the line can not spend more than an hour in Rushville if they go and come on the train. The schedule also causes poor mail service. Similar petitions have been circulated in Newcastle and all towns along the line.

The W. R. C. will hold its annual election of officers Wednesday afternoon. All members are urged to be present.

$50 IS ALLOWED FOR THIS OFFICE

That Sum May Be Expended for Vehicle Hire to Deliver Parcels Post Articles.

IS ONLY FOR PART OF A YEAR

Rushville Patrons of Office Must Mail Packages Under New Law At Postoffice.

Charles A. Frazee, postmaster, has received word from the postoffice department at Washington that the Rushville office has been allowed fifty dollars to hire a vehicle for delivering packages sent by parcels post.

"It is realized this amount may be sufficient," says the letter to the postmaster, "and whatever contracts are made must be only temporary. In addition to this postmasters are authorized to employ as many temporary and auxiliary clerks and carriers at the rate of thirty cents an hour as the volume of business makes necessary."

"Use your own judgment as to the type of the vehicle to be used in the new service," says the postmaster-general. "If you desire, make a monthly allowance to any of your carriers who will provide his own equipment."

"When the system has been in operation for fifteen days, that is on January 16, you will submit a report showing the volume of parcel post business; the additional cost for fifteen days, together with an outline of the plan adopted for handling the new business. Reports are needed to submit to congress on January 25 to obtain an appropriation for the rest of the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1913."

Congress appropriated only $750,000, the letter says, for the purpose of parcels post to supplement existing appropriations. Three hundred thousand dollars of the supplementary appropriation was for horse and vehicle hire. This sum is apportioned among the sixteen hundred free delivery offices in the United States on the basis of the business they transact.

Postmaster Frazee received a blank along with the order to be used in reporting the additional cost of handling parcels post packages. The postmaster general can not estimate the probable cost of parcels post to the department without first having data on which to base his estimates. This report will be in addition to one required concerning the weight and number of pieces of parcels post packages, and the amount of postage used in carrying them, which has been mentioned before.

One thing patrons of the postoffice are most likely to forget, says Postmaster Frazee, is that those who live in Rushville and receive their mail either at the office or of a city letter carrier can not mail matter by parcels post except at the postoffice. Patrons living on the rural route can send stuff by parcels post without coming to the postoffice. They can mail an article by parcels post to any person on the same route they are on and it will be carried direct without being brought to the postoffice. This is done with any class of mail, however.

Postmaster Frazee has not decided what method of delivering parcels post packages in the city will be adopted. Neither does he know whether any extra clerk hire will be needed.

The Rev. Mr. Markland of Shelbyville will preach at the First Baptist church each night this week at 7:30 o'clock, beginning Tuesday night.

WEDNESDAY IS OPENING DAY

Better Roads Convention Convenes in Indianapolis Tomorrow for Three Days' Session.

EXPERTS ARE ON THE PROGRAM

Sentiment in Favor of Better Highway Law Expected to Crystallize a Result.

The Indiana Better Roads Convention will convene Wednesday morning in the German House, Indianapolis, and will continue Thursday and Friday. The official program includes addresses by good roads experts from many States. The experts will tell of the progress that has been made in their respective States and also point out some of the mistakes they have made.

Several Rush county men interested in the good roads movement will attend at least one of the three days' meeting. Interest in the convention is indicative of the State-wide sentiment in favor of good roads legislation. The leaders of the movement say that if the convention is successful in its attempt to draft an acceptable good roads bill, the pressure which will be brought to bear in its favor on the next legislature will insure its passage.

Delegates to the convention were appointed from practically every county in the State. Mayor Black was authorized to appoint delegates from this city, and any one desiring to attend may do so as the sessions are open to the public.

The convention is under the auspices of the federated commercial organizations of Indianapolis, with C. A. Kenyon, president of the Indiana Good Roads Association, acting as chairman. The carrying out of legislative plans will fall largely on H. H. Rice, who was chosen head of the legislative committee. A draft of the proposed legislation will be submitted to the convention by C. A. Kenyon.

Wednesday's session includes addresses by Governor Marshall, Judge J. M. Lowe, W. D. Ward and several others. The evening session will be devoted to an illustrated lecture on "The Roads of the World," by M. O. Eldridge.

CASE WILL GO TO JURY TOMORROW

Changes of Venue Suit For $1,800

Occupies Time in Circuit Court All Day.

LEVI CASE IS CONTINUED

The case of the State of Indiana on the relation of Albert Greenley and others against Raymond and Alonzo T. Hooten, on a contract, for $1,800, is still grinding away in the circuit court. All of today was spent in the examination of witnesses. It is not probable the case will get to the jury before tomorrow.

The case of the State against Claude Levi, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, which was set for yesterday, has been postponed indefinitely because of the trial now in court. Levi was indicted by the grand jury for slashing Jake Williams with a knife one Saturday night a few months ago. Levi is out on a small bond.

TO ISSUE CERTIFICATES

Barnard Would Recognize Citizens Who Obey Health Laws.

H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, will begin a campaign of education among health boards in Indiana seeking to provide for the installation of a system of certificates, to be granted owners of food handling establishments, when their establishments have been pronounced "excellent" under the provision of the state's pure food and drug act. Health officials at Ft. Wayne have instituted such a system.

DROPS DEAD WHILE AT WORK ON FARM

Otto Golden Suffers Fatal Attack of Heart Trouble at Home Near Glenwood.

CORONER INVESTIGATES

Otto Golden, 47 years old, died suddenly from heart trouble this morning at seven o'clock, at his home one and one-half miles north of Glenwood, in Fayette county. Mr. Golden, was engaged with the morning chores when the fatal attack came and died almost instantly. Coroner Spieck of Fayette county investigated and found that death was due to heart trouble. Mr. Golden had been in ill health for about a year but had never suffered with his heart.

Mr. Golden was a well known farmer in that section. He had resided on his farm there for many years coming to Fayette county from Franklin county. He was a native of Franklin county and was born near Metamora. He is survived by his widow and four children, Mrs. Maude Cummins, the Misses Rosella and Wilma and Andrew. The funeral arrangements have not been completed but the remains will be taken to Franklin county for burial.

GLENWOOD BOYS ARRESTED TODAY

LeRoy Link and Edward Johnson Brought Here by Sheriff to Face Larceny Charge.

IMPLICATED WITH STEVENS

LeRoy Link and Edward Johnson of Glenwood were arrested this afternoon by Sheriff Bebout on a bench warrant charging larceny and brought to this city. The two boys are said to be implicated with Irvin Stevens in several robberies a month or so ago near the Rush-Fayette county line. Stevens was arrested several weeks ago and is held in jail here awaiting the grand jury. Stevens was arrested after much difficulty for the robbery of the residence of Ed Dolan.

The two boys arrested today are said by the officials to have been "in" with Stevens. At the time of his arrest Stevens intimated that he was only one of a gang that had "pulled off" a series of robberies in this and Fayette county. Link and Johnson are only sixteen years old and the case will be taken up by the juvenile court. They were to be arraigned before Judge Blair late this afternoon. The case against Stevens may also be taken up by the juvenile court as he is only sixteen years old.

The Daily Republican Santa Claus fund ascended to an unexpected total today by the aid of several large subscriptions and the total from the Palace theater benefit show. Prospects for as successful a fund as was had last year are good now since the total is keeping alongside that of last year.

Early contributions are still urged because the buyers would like to get that part of the program out of the way before the last few days before Christmas. Indications are that there will be just as many little children as there were last year without any prospects of a happy Christmas.

The inclement weather kept many people away from the Palace benefit. The total receipts were $21.15. The fund received all above the regular expenses which were fifteen dollars.

Florence Pulliam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pulliam of 950 West Third street, won the large doll, awarded for selling the most tickets, and Gus Demento, a little Italian boy whose father is employed at the Adams fruit stand, won the football.

The Pulliam girl got credit for selling eighty-seven tickets and the Demento boy sold even eighty tickets. Elsie Hardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hardin of West Third street, was a close contender for the doll. She sold eighty-one tickets. Several boys sold as many as twenty tickets, but the energetic little Italian boy outstripped them all. There are still about seventy-five tickets out on which reports have not been made so that the total of the Palace benefit proceeds may be higher.

The funeral services of Greely G. Mauzy will be conducted Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the late residence in North Harrison street by the Rev. C. M. Yocum. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery and will be in charge of the Masons.

"Our Personal Guarantee to all Skin Sufferers"

Lytle's Drug Store. Rushville.

We have been in business in this town for some time, and we are looking to build up trade by always advising our patrons right.

So when we tell you that we have found the eczema remedy and that we stand back of it with the manufacturer's iron clad guarantee, backed by ourselves you can depend upon it that we give our advice not in order to sell a few bottles of medicine to skin sufferers, but because we know how it will help our business and we help our patrons.

We keep in stock and sell all the well known skin remedies. But we will say this: If you are suffering from any kind of skin trouble, eczema, psoriasis, rash or better, we want you to try a full size bottle of D. D. D. Prescription. And, if it does not do the work, this bottle will cost you nothing. You alone to judge.

Again and again we have seen how a few drops of this simple wash applied to the skin, takes away the itch, instantly. And the cures all seem to be permanent.

D. D. D. Prescription made by the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago, is composed of thymol, glycerine, oil of wintergreen and other healing, soothing, cooling ingredients. And if you are just crazy with itch, you will feel soothed and cooled, the itch absolutely washed away the moment you applied this D. D. D.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommending this remedy to a skin sufferer here and there and we want you to try it only on our positive no-pay guarantee.

TEWFIK PASHA

Ottoman Ambassador at London Declines Post as Peace Envoy.

Constantinople, Dec. 10.—The departure of the Turkish delegates for the Balkan peace conference in London has been postponed until Thursday. The delay is due to the refusal of Tewfik Pasha, the Ottoman ambassador at London, to act as the premier member of the mission. The cabinet has substituted Nabi Bey, the Turkish ambassador at Rome, for the recalcitrant envoy at London.

AUSTRIANS FACING AN ARMY SENSATION

Minister of War and Chief of Staff Resign.

London, Dec. 10.—Preparations for the peace conference and ambassadorial meeting at St. James are going on apace here and the diplomats chose to look upon the belligerent attitude of Austria and Serbia as assumed more for effect than anything else.

Vienna, Dec. 10.—The resignation of General Von Duffenberg, the minister of war, has been accepted by the emperor, who has appointed General Von Krobatin to succeed him. The latter was the undersecretary of war. Field Marshal Schemua, the chief of the Austro-Hungarian general staff, also has resigned. Baron Von Hoetzendorf has been appointed as his successor.

The news of the war minister's resignation caused the greatest sensation, coming as it does at a time of such uncertainty as to Austria's attitude toward Serbia. So far there has been no official explanation of the reasons for the resignation. Atop of this news, which indicates that there has been some serious upheaval in the management of Austria's army, comes the word that bitterness toward Austria has so increased in Serbia that the press of the little nation is frankly discussing war and daring Austria to move her troops gathered along the border land of Serbia. The Serbian government has protested to Austria at the arrest of many Serbs visiting Austria-Hungary on business, who have been arrested as spies.

The Belgrade Pravda says: "If Austria desires war with Serbia, let it come. It will be the most bitter fight in history. Every Serbian, man and woman, young or old, will take part in the war and Austria will have to exterminate the entire nation before conquering it."

BIG GUN LET GO

Fourteen-inch Cannon Exploded at Proving Ground.

New York, Dec. 10.—A big fourteen-inch gun, fresh from the government gun factory at Watervliet arsenal and receiving its first test, blew up at the Sandy Hook proving grounds. Three men, two officers and an enlisted ordnance soldier, were within a few feet of the monster weapon, and although fragments weighing as much as a thousand pounds shot on all sides of them, not a man was injured.

The gun itself weighed about fifty tons, but as it was of the disappearing type the machinery and carriage brought the weight up to something like 250 tons. The projectile fired weighed 1,660 pounds and the full charge of smokeless powder was 340 pounds.

Eager to Get Back to Washington. Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—United States Senator John W. Kern, one of the attorneys for the defense in the dynamite case, will not remain here to hear the verdict of the jury regarding his forty-one clients who are on trial. As soon as he has made his argument to the jury, which, according to present indications, will be during the first week in January, Senator Kern will leave for Washington.

Auto Caught by Fast Train. Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 10.—Abraham L. Shambaugh, aged sixty-five, was seriously injured when his automobile was struck by a fast train on the Wabash railroad. His head was crushed and it is believed he was injured internally.

ENGLAND URGES TREATY RIGHTS

Formal Protest Against Favoring American Ships.

IT MAY REQUIRE ARBITRATION

That Clause in the Panama Canal Bill Giving to American Coasting Vessels Free Passage Through Canal, and to Which Great Britain Objected at the Time, Now Is Made the Subject of Grave Diplomatic Representations.

Washington, Dec. 10.—In a lengthy statement to Secretary of State Knox, James Bryce, ambassador from Great Britain, has made a formal demand upon the government of the United States either to repeal the act of congress granting free passage through the Panama canal to American ships engaged in coastwise trade or the submission of the controversy to arbitration.

The statement, which bears the signature of Sir Edward Grey, British minister of foreign affairs, is an amplification of the original note of protest presented by A. Mitchell Innes, British charge d'affaires, on July 8 last. It endeavors to establish by argument the soundness of the British contention that the legislation favoring American ships is in violation of the treaty rights of Great Britain with regard to the Panama canal.

The note further gives warning that another protest will be forthcoming from Great Britain if it is held by the government of the United States that the disbarment from the use of the canal of ships in which railroads under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission have an interest and ships whose owners may be adjudged guilty of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. The note states that the British government now assumes that these two clauses do not apply to or affect British ships.

In regard to arbitration it is stated that the British government has taken cognizance of the fact that many persons of note in the United States—whose opinions are entitled to great weight—hold that the act of congress in question does not infringe the treaty obligations of the United States, and therefore it is declared the British government is perfectly willing to submit the question to arbitration if the United States prefers. This significant sentence is added, however:

"A reference to arbitration would be rendered unnecessary if the government of the United States should be prepared to take such steps as would remove the objections to the act which his majesty's government has stated."

Though neither the president nor secretary of state have ever made any declaration as to whether the United States would be willing to submit the controversy over canal tolls to arbitration, it has been generally assumed that this government would refuse to arbitrate the dispute with Great Britain.

Sir Edward Grey, in the note presented to Mr. Knox, hastens to deny that the British government is attempting to deny the right of the United States to grant subsidies to its shipping interests and thus deprive it of the same rights enjoyed by other nations and which will send subsidized vessels through the Panama canal.

The note concludes with the statement that Great Britain appreciates the emotion with which the opening of the canal is looked forward to by citizens of the United States, and that it is only with the greatest reluctance that it has felt compelled to raise these objections to the act of congress regarding tolls. The objections, it is declared, have been confined within the narrowest possible limits, and Great Britain recognizes, it is stated in the fullest manner, the right of the United States to control the canal.

Ambassador Bryce presented this document to Secretary Knox at his residence and it is expected that the next step will be the presentation of the case of the United States in a note from Secretary Knox to Ambassador Bryce.

Sherman Simpson on Trial.

Boonville, Ind., Dec. 10.—The trial of Sherman Simpson, aged twenty-six, charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Benjamin Dorsey, aged fifty-five, is in progress in the Warrick circuit court. ## MORE EVIDENCE IN DYNAMITING TRIAL

One Defendant Anxious for "Something to Happen."

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—One of the defendants in the dynamiting cases.

er of the Syracuse New York, local of iron workers, on the stand denied any knowledge of dynamiting. He explained letters passing between him and J. J. McNamara from 1908 to 1911 as referring simply to a plan he had formed of getting two or three men on a job of the American Bridge company at Syracuse for the purpose of proving that the company was violating the New York law by working its men more than eight hours a day.

The district attorney then read from a number of letters that he had written to McNamara and from replies from McNamara that he admitted he had received. One of these letters from Phillips under date of March 28, 1911, read in part:

"I think something ought to be done and there is no better place to do it. A great many of our brothers are anxious for something to happen. Of course we would have to have help. It wouldn't do to bring the matter up here. I will let you know later on when the thing is ripe. I offered to look after it if the local would pay expenses, but they do not seem to be interested."

To this letter McNamara replied in part:

"I think you speak a little too plainly in your letters. A great many people may read them."

NEW SECRET OF THE AIR.

Expert Discovers How Birds Remain Motionless in Air Currents.

An important advance is considered to have been made in the science of aviation by Joseph Cousin, who for some time past has been recognized as an eminent French authority on the laws of flight and now asserts that he has discovered a hitherto unknown law, which he calls that of "presentation."

This, he declares, is an essential, although hitherto unsuspected, principle in the motion of any body in a fluid medium, such as a bird in the air or a fish in water, and it explains the problem of how birds remain motionless and stationary in a strong current of air and also fly at a very high speed with a small expenditure of energy.

"Presentation," he says, consists of special adaptation both in the form of a flying body and the manner in which it is offered to the direction of the current. It acts by causing the fluid medium to form a counter pressure behind the body actually stronger than that opposed to it in front, thus enormously assisting the progress of the body.

"Once this principle of the formation of a counter pressure by guiding and directing the air current shall be fully recognized and applied in the construction of aeroplanes," says M. Cousin, "the result will be almost perfect security and an immense increase in speed."

SILENCE IS GOLDEN. ANOTHER MAXIM SUPPLIES THE TEXT.

To Mr. Hiram Maxim: Sir—We'll thank you if you will Your silence at once transfer To keep some persons still. Full eighty million freemen cry That silence they will gladly buy. So bring your new contraption, Hiram, And we will pay the bill.

Oh, come and put a stopper on That nonamusing man Who bids all human joy begone— The vaudeville man! And, Hiram, there is work for you Upon another nuisance, too. Who doesn't know his season's through— The winter baseball fan.

O Hiram, there's a girl who dwells Within the flat above The every cursed minute yells A song that's all of love! O mighty Hiram, grant me this: Please hurry up and meet that miss And plug her facial orifice As with a boxing glove!

Yes, Hiram, in March you'll sell a lot Of silencers, I'll bet. Down where the office seeker's got Poor Woodrow in a fret. He'll hand you out a handsome crown If with your silencer you'll drown That dreadful din within his town. "Well, what's the job I get?" —John O'Keefe in New York World.

BULGARS' THIRD ELEVATION TO POWER AMONG WORLD NATIONS

Thrice Risen From the Oppressed and the Lowly Masses.

Past Territory Greater Than New Bulgaria —Is Likely to Be.

THE quick ascendancy of Bulgaria into the society of powerful nations is the third evolution which has elevated the Bulgars from among the oppressed and the lowly masses. Twice before Bulgaria has existed as a free and independent nation, and each time she has known the glories of worldwide influence. In the past her territory was far greater than the present Bulgaria and perhaps greater than will be the new Bulgaria recreated from the tumbling ruins of the Ottoman empire.

Bulgarian traditions extend to A. D. 679, when a tribe called Bulgarians appeared from the direction of the Danube, under the leadership of Asparuch. They were not Slavs, and history has not determined if they were Uralians, Finnish, Tartars or Turks.

But these Bulgarians who settled south of the Danube were a powerful tribe, and their desire to conquer was backed by a strong system of state organization. Asparuch knew how to organize his forces into a government, and it was under him that the first semblance of government appeared among the Bulgarians. His people became military and accustomed to discipline and to leadership. Those factors were absent from the Balkan Slavonic tribes and were necessary for the single tribal, territorial and political whole found in the Bulgarians under Asparuch.

This state organization was effected on the ruins of numerous tribes which had lived in the Balkan peninsula for generations. History says the Slavs reached and settled that country first in the third century and that even then they found the ruins of towns and roads left by the Romans. But those early occupants of the territory left no descendants, and the first traditions of the land really sprang from the Bulgarians under Asparuch.

Adoption of Christianity.

An epoch in the early career of the Bulgars was marked when they and the Slavs, in the reign of Boris, adopted Christianity in 864. This faith was adopted for purely political reasons, and it had a great influence internally and externally.

Internally it brought about a close union between the Bulgars and the Slavs, and by means of a common literature it placed on an equality the habits, customs and language of both. Externally Bulgaria appears as an empire in the congress of nations. On the geographical maps of that day Bulgaria is shown as an empire extending across the Balkan peninsula and down nearly to the Bosphorus.

Following the adoption of Christianity there is no mention in historical records of tribal or racial division between the invaders and the conquerors. The conquerors contented themselves with establishing a great Bulgarian state, and they adopted the language of a mixed mass of people and assimilated the races.

Simeon the Great, son of Boris, became the first czar of Bulgaria, and with him occurs the first mention of such a title. At the same time the first Bulgarian archbishop was created, a patriarch, and there history records the division between and co-operation of the state and church. These titles, however, were not recognized by the Byzantine empire, then the greatest on the earth, until the reign of Peter, son of Simeon.

Arrogant In Success.

During Peter's reign the Bulgarians prospered, but there was a weakness in its external affairs. It failed to make allies. It became arrogant in its success, and in the succeeding reign of Boris II. it antagonized the Byzantine empire, and the Greek general, John Tsymich, took to Constantinople.

ROOM WITH GLASS FLOOR.

American Artist's Decorative Scheme For an Aeroplane Illusion.

Montfort Coolidge, a New York painter in Paris, has evolved a novel idea of room decoration for the villa of Count Gabbi, a young and wealthy aviator at Rimini, Italy. The panels will represent landscapes of southern Europe as seen from an aeroplane.

The ceiling of the room will be colored to resemble the sky, while in the middle of the floor will be set a large panel of glass. Some distance below the glass and lighted electrically from the sides will be fixed a painting resembling the Italian Alps seen from an immense height.

The illusion of flying in an aeroplane will thus be given to the occupants of the room, which will be used for musical entertainments. This remarkable scheme has, it is asserted, sound artistic principles. Mr. Coolidge explains that, the paintings being below the level of the eye, it can be enjoyed in comfort while listening to the music, but a decorated ceiling is far too high to be properly appreciated in these circumstances.

Mr. Coolidge asserts that this idea is a development of the methods of the Romans, who adorned their floors, as well as their walls, with mosaics.

nople the crown of the enemy of the Byzantines, Boris II., and deprived Damian, the Bulgarian patriarch, of his see.

Bulgaria at that time lacked farseeing statesmen. She became a selfish power within herself and against all others. There was competition for emolument within herself, and the Byzantines did not find great difficulty in destroying this disorganized state.

In the year 1018 the Emperor Basil of Byzantium, known as "Slayer of the Bulgarians," put an end to Bulgarian existence, particularly in the west, toward the Adriatic. This war continued for twenty-eight years, and then for 107 years Bulgaria and the Bulgarians remained under the rule of the Byzantines.

Weakness Develops.

Byzantium, however, was weak in herself. She did not continue in a position to cope with dangerous and difficult problems since her own rulers were not firmly fixed upon their seats and because of internal jealousies and dissensions. Here it was said that graft weakened the Byzantines, just as it is said to have made their successors, the Turks, weak in the present war with the Balkan allies.

Bolgars Asen and Peter, descendants of the first czars of Bulgaria, made a successful revolution in Tirnovo in the early part of the twelfth century, obtained independence of the Bulgars and proclaimed the second Bulgarian empire.

Asen I. and his successors, notably Asen II., greatly increased the powers and territory of the second Bulgaria, waging victorious wars with the Greeks and the crusaders and extending the boundaries of the empire still more widely than in the time of Boris II. They annexed Moesia, Thracia, Macedonia and Albania as far as Durazzo, which is now the Adriatic port of contention between the Servians and the Austrians.

But the second Bulgarian empire was as weak as the first in lacking any definite state policy. Apparently its leaders were fighting for aggrandizement without knowing why. They formed no alliances. There was no higher inspiration than rehabilitation and revenge which prompted their warlike moves. Therefore it was in the position of being strong and aggressive when the throne was held by a strong and aggressive czar and weak and ineffectual when the ruler was incapable.

Engaged In Many Wars.

The unstable internal condition of the country was aggravated by the many wars and expeditions which were carried on without definite purpose. These weakened it and prepared it for catastrophe. These facts led to the establishment of a strong Serbian kingdom, which made its capital at Uskub, under the Serbian Czar Dushan, in the first half of the fourteenth century. This division of power made it easy for the Turks to conquer Bulgaria and later the whole Balkan peninsula.

Bulgaria then disappeared as an independent nation for five centuries until the domination of the Turkish empire was broken down by the efforts of the Russians and the Roumanians. Then the Berlin treaty gave Bulgaria practical liberty, and in 1908 Ferdinand declared the absolute independence of the Bulgarians and proclaimed himself czar. Until then he had been a prince. The title czar is clearly traced through 1,800 years from Caesar. One form of it is kaiser.

For nearly 400 years the Bulgarians have been preparing for the war with Turkey. The result of this training is seen in the third appearance of the great Bulgarian empire under Czar Ferdinand.

PLEADS FOR THE SKUNK.

Living's High Cost Reduced by It's Efforts, Zoologist Says.

While the importation of elk into Pennsylvania has caused hunters to awaken to the fact that there are no laws that prohibit the killing of these animals, because there has not been for many years an elk in the state's forests, Economic Zoologist H. A. Surface suggests that the game laws should be extended to provide protection for an animal which to his mind is even more important. It is the skunk.

"There is no animal more valuable than the skunk," said Dr. Surface.

"The economic aspect of the utility of the skunk was well illustrated this year by the potato crop. If the state had enough skunks potatoes would be selling at reasonable prices. The skunk, in a measure, will help solve the high cost of living.

"The skunk likes white grub, and they never were more plentiful than this year. The grubs have done much damage. They are the larvae of the May beetle, or June bug. These grubs eat the roots off grass and attack the roots of the potatoes.

"With more skunks there would have been fewer grubs, and potatoes would not be selling at 90 cents a bushel."

A Big Difference in Quality No Difference in Price

That's What You Will Say When You See Our Storm Buggies

It does not take an expert to detect the superior quality of our storm buggies. You can see at a glance they are finished much better, and are constructed in a way that leaves no doubt in your mind about the quality. Then the style is different. We do not wait for the other fellow to advance the styles and then follow them. We are continually showing the new styles and you will say when you see our line of storm buggies, that as far as style is concerned, they are certainly in a class by themselves. If you want a buggy that is different, better and at the right price we want to see you and you want too see our buggies.

Home Merchants Best.

Before our citizens send large amounts away from home to larger cities and mail order houses, why not look around the home stores and see what the home merchant has done for you?

Our home merchants are always progressive. They put in larger stocks of holiday and winter goods than ever before. They study the market carefully, buy of responsible wholesale houses and get goods that are both stylish and substantial, good for permanent wear.

The excuse is sometimes made that the larger city has a larger assortment of goods. But this larger assortment is commonly of use to but few buyers. The great department store, for the sake of its reputation for completeness, has to carry a large amount of very costly goods to meet the whims of wealthy people. If you want a parlor rug costing from $10 to $100, it is of but little use to you that the metropolitan store has a full line of $1,000 orientals.

Furthermore, the carrying of these great assortments is an expense that all has to come out of the consumer. It means sacrifice sales when goods become out of date, and the original price has to be high enough to pay for all these losses.

The supreme advantage of buying at home is that you can do the shopping at your leisure, and always see the goods personally. The purchase made by mail is a reckless plunge into a grab-bag of unknown contents. Even when on an excursion to the great city you see the goods personally, your time is usually so limited that you don't have the opportunity for consideration afforded by the leisurely visit to the home store. The results are apt to be correspondingly disappointing.

The bigger the metropolitan emporium, the more machine like is the attention you get. The clerk or proprietor at home usually is in a position to give you some useful information about the thing you are buying. The metropolitan store employs a vast force of clerks, many of them of slight intelligence, who can give you no light about the thing you are buying, other than to tell you whether it is in vogue of the moment or not. Intelligent purchases are not made in that manner.

Defenseless.

The Jacksonian offers no defense for its unwarranted attack on the civil service which it termed "farce in practice." Rather it replies in glittering generalities and hoots at the Republican's "attempt" to defend President Taft for placing fourth-class postmasters under the civil service.

The Republican did not offer any defense for President Taft's order, for there seems to be no occasion for any. The Republican merely cited the fact that Grover Cleveland, the only Democratic president since the inception of civil service, was a hearty advocate of the merit system, and said in his message to congress in December, 1896, that fourth-class postmasters ought to be in the classified service.

The Republican said further: "He explained that he did not include them in his 'blanket order' of that year because he was not certain that the civil service law authorized him to do it. This law has been interpreted with more liberality as the years have gone by, and no one so far has questioned the authority of President Taft to extend the law to these postmasters."

That was not the issue. The Jacksonian does not deny that it received the two tirades on civil service that it published from some one higher up, who evidently has charge of the tearing away the fence that protects the plum tree. Probably the Jacksonian has some more of that first-hand copy concerning the "farce in civil service," which it will most likely not publish now in the light of recent developments.

"What does it matter that Grover Cleveland said or did," says the Jacksonian. And further on, "To us the acts of Grover Cleveland in attempting to broaden the scope of civil service are viewed with the same intelligence as are those of any Republican president."

Surely enough. We have the admission of the Democratic organ at last. If all of the fourth-class postmasters had been placed under civil service by Cleveland, there would have been no objection from the Jacksonian. But since they were put in the classified service by Taft—understand, we are not trying to justify Taft's act, because it needs no justification since Mr. Cleveland said he believed all fourth-class postmasters should be in the service—it is wholly bad and nefarious.

That leads us to raise the question if the Jacksonian would not be a most violent defender of civil service if men in the service were ALL Democrats. The Jacksonian never saw what an evil the merit system was until Woodrow Wilson was elected and a chance for a job at any cost was apparent. The Jacksonian evidently has been suffering from some sort of hallucination all these years, because it has never warned its worthy readers against the terrible merit system.

The Indianapolis Star continually harps about the "bosses" in the Republican party, without giving specific names. Please note that the Star always speaks of "bosses" in the plural—there must be a bunch of them. But of all the parties that ever existed in this Republic the Progressive party leads them all when it comes to having a boss. Please note that "boss" here is in the singular. That party has only one boss and his name is Theodore Roosevelt. Nothing is more dangerous to a Republic than a one-man power—it smacks of monarchy. While Roose-

SCHOOLMATES MEET AFTER FORTY YEARS

Tom Green and Lon Hooten Attended District School Together in Center Township.

THEY RECOGNIZE EACH OTHER

T. M. Green walked into the court room late yesterday afternoon to file a final report with Judge Blair. He noticed a man in the court room who persisted in staring at him. Mr. Green admitted in his own mind that he looked a bit familiar.

Mr. Green transacted his business and started out of the court room when the stranger approached him and stuck out his hand.

"Hello Tom," he said.
"Hello Lon," replied Mr. Green, for the man's name came to him in the instant.

It developed that the stranger was Lon Hooten of Hancock county, one of the defendants in the Greeley-Hooten case now being heard in court. Mr. Green and Mr. Hooten attended the old district school together up in Center township forty years ago, and have not seen one another since.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess offers the usual two pictures tonight. "So Near and Yet So Far" is the title of a Biograph drama, featuring Mary Pickford. The other is an Essanay picture entitled "Ghosts." Both are said to be exceptionally good pictures. Tomorrow night "The Red Barrier," a Vitagraph will be shown.

President Taft will be seen in a picture at the Palace theater tonight. The picture is entitled, "An Animated Weekly," and is of great educational value. "When Hearts Are Trumps," a Nestor drama, will be the other film. Friday night a benefit show for the Loyal Daughters of the Main Street Christian church will be given. At that time an Imp two reel feature picture entitled, "Human Hearts" will be the offering.

Of the double musical attraction which William Morris, the noted manager of Harry Lauder, Sirota and other international attractions, will present at the Shubert-Murat, Indianapolis, next Friday and Saturday, December 13-14, including Saturday matinee, consisting of "Wood Nymphs" and "The Barnyard Romeo," which are used to exploit the versatility of the famous stars—Annette Kellermann and Jefferson De Angelis the latter piece is perhaps the most unusual. "The Barnyard Romeo" is said to be the liveliest, most gallus bird that will roost in this city for many a day. This also applies to the Hen Pheasant, the Goose, the Cat, the Fox, the Mice, the Hares and all other flocks of birds and beasts which foregather and disport themselves in a typical barnyard scene, for all the actors are costumed to resemble these creatures. The production is staged by Ben Teal, that veteran stage director, and the result is that this musical satire of farmyard domesticity has the always-on-the-go swing, the quick stepping from one kaleidoscopic picture to another, the perfect rhythm coupled with big ensembles which make for enduring success. Everything goes with a biff, bang; each brisk singing and dancing number succeeds another with a speed that makes an audience reel with a giddy joy at the busted speed laws. In "The Barnyard Romeo," Jefferson DeAngelis and Dorothy Vaughan enjoy themselves as the Rooster (the Romeo), and the Goose respectively, and are assisted by Dorothy Webb, as the Hen Pheasant; Ernest Stanton as the Fox, Bert Kallmar as the Cat, and Miss Kellermann and G. Molasso as Birds of Paradise. There is a big, strikingly handsome chorus. Miss Kellerman appears in "Wood Nymphs" a beautiful woodland fantasy set to music, in which she introduces her new classical dances and wonderful diving feats, assisted by G. Molasso and a ballet of English dancing girls.

FAIRLY WALLOW IN COURT HOUSE HEAT

Officials Turn Steam Radiators Wide Open and Forget About Days of Cold.

NEW BOILERS WORKING GOOD

The long awaited sizzle of steam heat gently working its way through the valve on the radiators in the court house today. Officials fairly wallowed in heat, so delighted were they that they no longer had to depend on coal oil stoves to keep them warm.

The boilers were all installed by yesterday and yesterday afternoon the engineer at the heating plant began to fire up. All day the occupants of the court house longingly glanced at the tall smoke stack, and late Monday afternoon they were rewarded for their endurance by the tiny rings of smoke that occasionally came from the top of the stack. All radiators were turned wide open today so as to get the court house heated up once more.

The Root of Evil

By THOMAS DIXON

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

"Oh, Jim, dear," she faltered. "you know that would be madness!"
"Certainly it's madness, the madness of a great love! Come, why do you hesitate?"
The lines of her body relaxed and she began to sob softly. The man waited in silence for her to speak.
"I've done you harm enough, dearest," she said at last. "I can't do this."

A STITCH IN TIME

Rushville People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys.

No kidney ailment is unimportant. Don't overlook the slightest backache or urinary irregularity. Nature may be warning you of approaching dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Kidney disease is seldom fatal if treated in time, but neglect may pave the way. Don't neglect a lame or aching back another day. Don't ignore dizzy spells, irregular or discolored urine, headaches, weariness or depression. If you feel you need kidney help begin using the reliable, time-tried remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. For 50 years, Doan's have been found effective. Endorsed by Rushville people.

Mrs. L. B. Leeds, 904 W. Second St., Rushville, Ind., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they are just fine. I was subject to dizzy and nervous spells and my kidneys were weak, causing backache. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family with good results, so I took them. They promptly cured me and I have not been bothered since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"And your thought is only of me, Nan?" he asked with piercing intensity.

"And of myself," she acknowledged brokenly. "I couldn't do such an insane, vulgar thing."

"I didn't think you could," was the bitter response.

"All I ask," she pleaded, "is to hear you say the words that you love me now—just as I am with all my faults."

"Well, I shall not speak them," he answered savagely. "Your husband is the master of millions, but I am the master of something bigger—I am the master of myself. I will not play a second fiddle to your little husband."

The dark head dropped lower. When she lifted it at last two despairing tears were shining in her eyes.

"I understand, Jim," she said simply. "We will go on as we have. I'll wait in silence."

He rose and lifted her to her feet. The voices of the youngsters rang up the mountain's side.

"No, we can't go on like this now, Nan," he said with quiet strength. "The silence has been broken between us. Your husband is my friend and from today our lives must lie apart. It's the only way."

She extended her hand and he pressed it tenderly. Her voice was the merest sobbing whisper when she spoke: "Yes, Jim, I suppose it's the only way."

CHAPTER XXIV.

The White Messenger.

IN spite of Bivens' protest Stuart returned to New York on the first train the morning after the coaching party reached the house.

"Stay a week longer," the little man urged, "and I'll go with you. We'll go together, all of us, in my car. I'm getting worse here every day. I've got to get back to my doctors in New York."

"I'm sorry, Cal," he answered quickly, "but I must leave at once."

Nan allowed him to go without an effort to change his decision. A strange calm had come over her. She drove to the station with him in silence. He began to wonder what it meant.

As he stepped from the machine she extended her hand, with a tender smile, and said in low tones:

"Until we meet again."

He pressed it gently and was gone.

He reached New York thoroughly exhausted and blue, but the sight of Harriet seated on the stoop of the old home by the square watching a crowd of children play brought a smile back to his haggard face.

"They've come to honor me with their good wishes on my voyage," she said.

"What voyage?" he asked in surprise.

"Oh, you didn't know. I've an engagement to sing on the continent this summer. The news came the day you left. Isn't that fine? I sail next week."

A sudden idea struck him.

"Let me go with you, girlie?"

"Oh, Jim, if you only would, I'd be in heaven!"

"I will!" he said with decision. "You've booked your passage?"

"Yes, but I'll change it to suit you."

He found business which required a week and booked his passage with Harriet on a Cunarder which sailed in ten days. A week later Nan and Bivens returned to their New York house. The papers were full of stories of his falling health.

Two days after her arrival Nan telephoned to Stuart.

"You must come up to see Cal tonight," she said earnestly. "He is asking for you."

"Is he really dangerously ill?" Stuart interrupted.

"It's far more serious than the papers suspect. You'll come?"

"Yes, early tomorrow morning. I've an important engagement tonight that will keep me until 12 o'clock. I'm sailing for Europe day after tomorrow."

A sudden click at the other end and he was cut off. His experienced ear told him it was not an accident.

It was just dawn when Stuart's telephone rang and he leaped from bed, startled at the unusual call.

"Well, well," he cried in quick, impatient tones, "who is it? What is the matter?"

CLEARING HOUSE COMBINE FOUND

Nearest Suggestion of So-Called Money Trust.

STRUCK A PROMISING LEAD

When the Pujo Committee Disclosed the Fact That Concerted Co-Operation Exists Between Clearing Houses at Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Louisville, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Columbus, Its Members Began to Perk Up.

Washington, Dec. 10.—That it will recommend the incorporation of clearing house associations and probably governmental regulation of these institutions, the money trust committee of the house indicated pretty clearly in the course of its hearing. Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, repeatedly asked witnesses if any objection could be made to the compulsory incorporation of these powerful banking agencies, and the replies he received from well-known bankers from Baltimore, Pittsburg and Philadelphia were not unfavorable to the idea.

Also the committee's counsel frequently questioned witnesses in regard to the advisability of putting a limitation on some powers of the clearing houses, notably the power to discontinue clearances for weak banks and thus practically drive them out of business. The form of this limitation as suggested by counsel for the committee was the requirement of final approval by state banking authorities in the case of state banks and trust companies and of the comptroller of the currency in the case of national banks. The answers given by witnesses to these questions were for the most part opposed to all attempts at government regulation or supervision.

The most interesting disclosures related to the Pittsburg Clearing House association. It was shown that the association had not only adopted a rule regarding the business affairs of members and non-members of the Pittsburg association, but also had co-operated with clearing houses in five other cities to enforce the same rules on the banks in those industrial centers. These rules included a uniform commission on out-of-town drafts and collections, and also the power to fix the rate of interest to be paid by the members and non-member banks that cleared through the institutions having direct affiliations with the clearing house.

The cities besides Pittsburg which are involved in this concerted clearing house movement, are Cincinnati, Louisville, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Columbus. The intimation plainly conveyed by questions asked by the committee's counsel was that the co-operation among these six cities within a somewhat limited area was for the purpose of strengthening the hold of each individual clearing house on the banking facilities of each city by foreclosing the possibility of customers in one city doing their banking business with institutions in a nearby city. The disclosure of this concerted movement was the nearest suggestion that the committee has yet obtained of a so-called "money trust."

THE SHORT WAY

Program of Language Association Uses Simplified Spelling.

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—Men who know all about words, their history and relation to ancient and modern languages will be here in great numbers Dec. 26, 27 and 28 to attend the eighteenth annual meeting of the central division of the Modern Language Association of America.

The meeting will be held in Indianapolis at the invitation of Indiana university, Purdue university, DePauw university, Wabash college, Earlham college and Butler college. Eminent instructors from the leading universities of the United States will take part.

A feature of the printed program is its spelling, which is according to the rules and regulations of the simplified spelling board. For example, "asked" is "askt," and "executive" is "executiv." Everything is simplified except the foreign names of some of the professors and the titles of their lectures. The address of welcome will be delivered by William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana university.

Then Gave Himself Up.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 10.—John Withen gave himself up on a charge of shooting with intent to kill Walter String in a blind tiger at Lewis, south of this city. String was brought to the hospital here and will recover. Withen was released on bond.

Investigating Railway Wrecks.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Charles C. McChord, the member of the interstate commerce commission who has charge of the commission's accident bureau, is conducting a rigid investigation into recent wrecks of express trains with a view of learning where the fault lies.

Met With Singular Accident.

Darlington, Ind., Dec. 10.—Edward Maguire, a farmer three miles northwest of here, chopped off his right ear while splitting wood. The ax struck a clothesline and glanced, slicing off the ear.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IS PERPLEXING POLICE

New Jersey Couple Found Dead in Cottage.

Swarts Wood Lake, N. J., Dec. 10.—In an unoccupied cottage on the lake shore were found the bodies of Ludwig Palmer, a well-to-do builder of South Orange, and of Mrs. Barbara Rapke, a widow, of Newark. Mrs. Rapke had been killed by a bullet through the right temple and Palmer by a bullet back of the left ear, both bullets penetrating the brain.

The investigation of Coroner Coleman convinced that official that Palmer had first shot the woman and then killed himself. Neither members of the two families nor any of their friends can imagine why the man should want to commit the crime or why the woman should have been willing to permit it.

Palmer, married happily and prosperous, was well known in Orange county. Mrs. Rapke was about fifty years of age and also well-to-do. She lived on Van Buren street, Newark, with a married daughter, Mrs. Martha Wooster.

Introduced Her As Wife.

According to the story, Palmer called for Mrs. Rapke at Newark last Friday and the two started out, leaving word that they were to meet Mrs. Palmer and make a trip with her. They appeared that evening at Newton, where they spent the night, and on Saturday they came to Swarts Wood Lake, where they went to the home of John Emmons. Palmer, who knew Emmons, introduced Mrs. Rapke as his wife and they remained there for the night.

The builder and the widow left the Emmons home Monday morning. They appeared in high good humor. Nothing was heard from the couple from that time until their bodies were found in the cottage. There was not a sign of the slightest struggle anywhere. One revolver had been used and in both cases it had been held up against the flesh. Another revolver was in Palmer's pocket.

Rejected Senate Action.

Washington, Dec. 10.—By a vote of 141 to 101 the house of representatives refused to concur in the senate resolution authorizing an inquiry looking to the purchase by the government of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, now owned by Representative Jefferson Levy of New York.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Woodrow Wilson is expected home from Bermuda next Saturday.

A conference of the leaders of the new Progressive party is being held at Chicago.

The liberty bell will be sent to the Panama Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

Rumors of a serious accident reported to have befallen the Atlantic liner Mauretania proved to be unfounded.

Lieutenant General Count Terauchi, Japanese governor general of Korea, has been appointed premier of Japan, succeeding Marquis Saionji.

It is reported that the Irish crown jewels which were stolen from Dublin castle early in July, 1907, have been replaced intact in their original position.

The infant son of Archduke Charles Francis Joseph of Austria was given seventeen names, beginning with Charles Francis Joseph Otto. His father is next heir to the throne after Franz Ferdinand.

Baroness Bertha Von Suttner of Vienna, who received the Nobel peace prize in 1905 as a result of her efforts to advance the cause of universal peace, has completed a seven-months' lecture tour in behalf of peace in this country.

WILL TALK OVER COMING SESSION

Democratic Representatives to Hold a Confab.

SOME SPEAKERSHIP GOSSIP

While Preliminary Meeting of Majority Members of Indiana House to Be Held This Week May Discuss Speakership Possibilities, It Is Believed No Decision Will Be Arrived at Until the Caucus.

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—Indications are that there will be many Democrats in the city Thursday for the conference of the Democratic members of the house, which will be held at the Denison hotel. It is thought that practically all of the ninety-four Democratic representatives will be here, and word has been sent out to county chairmen, county officials, mayors of cities and other leaders and workers to attend. Governor Elect Ralston is expected Wednesday night.

There is speculation among Democrats as to whether the conference will take up the election of a speaker of the house. The opinion prevails that this subject will not be considered formally, if at all. The question will be left until the house caucus the night before the opening of the session of the legislature. It appears to be agreed that Homer L. Cook, representative from Marion county, is the leading candidate for speaker at this time, but some Democrats are saying that it is a long time until the session opens and that no one can tell. There has been a renewal of the talk of Joseph M. Cravens of Madison and Mark Storen of Scottsburg.

It is understood to be the intention of the representatives to appoint a plunder committee at this conference. It will have charge of the distribution of jobs and the making of appointments for clerical and other positions in the house.

TANSEL MURDER TRIAL

Father and Son Facing the Court at Winchester.

Winchester, Ind., Dec. 10.—The case of the state against Charles and Ruskin Tansel, charged with second degree murder, is in progress in the Randolph circuit court here. They are charged with killing Robert N. Krofft of Greencastle, in this city, Oct. 5.

Krofft was a director of the Ohio and Indiana Stone company, and came here in September to superintend work on a road. Charles Tansel was employed by the stone company until a short time before Krofft arrived. Krofft and Tansel quarreled over some earth scoops. Tansel, with his eighteen-year-old son Ruskin, met Krofft in front of the Windsor hotel on the morning of Oct. 5. It is believed they engaged in an argument. People standing near thought the men were joking, and did not realize what had happened until the younger Tansel started running for the jail. Krofft, it is alleged, had Tansel on the ground and was administering a severe beating, when the boy, with a pocketknife, it is alleged, severed the muscles of Krofft's right arm. He then stabbed him three times in the back, according to the prosecution. A long knife blade was imbedded in his spine. Krofft died three days later and it is charged the knife wounds were the cause of his death.

Deputy Held Responsible.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Dec. 10.—The jury in the case of Marion E. Pangburn, former county treasurer, against Lewis L. Chapman and the American Surety company returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $9,822.63, the amount of the shortage, which, with the interest, amounts to $17,337.73. An appeal will be taken. The verdict was based on the theory that Chapman, as Pangburn's deputy, was responsible for the shortage.

A Conflict of Testimony.

Boonville, Ind., Dec. 10.—Robert Torrence, aged fifty-three, is not expected to recover from the effects of a bullet wound alleged to have been inflicted by Edward Rogers, aged fifty-five. Torrence asserts that it was not Rogers, but his wife who fired the shot. Rogers gave himself up. Trouble between the two men has been brewing for some months. Rogers says Torrence had been too familiar with Rogers's wife.

To Assist State Development.

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—A bill may be introduced in the legislature for a topographic map of Indiana, to aid engineering and assist in the economic development of the state. An appropriation of $5,000 will be asked. It is estimated that six years will be required for the work. State Geologist Edward Barrett and a committee of the Indiana branch of the national conservation congress are behind the movement.

Serious Poolroom Affray.

Greensburg, Ind., Dec. 10.—A fight took place in a poolroom here in which William Weeks was shot by his partner, James Smith. The bullet went through a portion of Weeks's abdomen through his leg and dropped to the floor without seriously injuring him.

DEAD BODY MAY BE CHARLES ECK'S

Corpse Found in Trunk at Kokomo.
Believed to be That of Former
St. Paul Man.

DISAPPEARED SIX WEEKS AGO

Last Seen When he Drew Money
From Bank to Pay His Taxes.

A dead body in a trunk at Kokomo last evening is believed to be all that remains of Charles Eck of Indianapolis, formerly of near St. Paul, who disappeared several weeks ago. He was last seen in St. Paul.

The sheriff of Howard county communicated with the sheriff of Shelby county last night and it was expected that some of Eck's relatives would go to Kokomo today to ascertain whether the dead man is Eck.

Eck, it will be remembered, was formerly a resident of Shelby county, living there for several years. Later he removed to Indianapolis and it is from his home in that city that he has been missing for several weeks. He is about thirty-six years old and leaves a wife and two children.

When he disappeared he went to Shelbyville, and from there went to St. Paul, giving, before leaving home, as his intentions going to Shelbyville to pay his taxes. He went to St. Paul to withdraw a sum of money from the bank at that place with which to pay the taxes. At the time he secured the money at the bank is the last that he has been seen by any one knowing him. The taxes were not paid by him and nothing since has been heard from him.

Attorneys have been working on his case, but have been unable to find any trace as to his present whereabouts, or as to his wanderings during his now long, unexplained, absence.

Some of his friends and relatives have held to the theory of foul play, while the report has been circulated that there had been some unpleasantness between himself and his wife, and that he had bidden farewell forever to the Hoosier State and is now living in the west.

Wherever he may be, his friends would welcome the news telling them of his newly adopted home, as it would relieve a suspense in which they have been for so many weeks now.

Miss Sue Gregg, who is in the Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis, is gradually improving and will probably be brought home in a few days.

XMAS TREES SAID TO BE PLENTIFUL

Ban on Some of New England Product Will Not Affect Local Supply.

MANY GROW IN MICHIGAN

Action Taken by Government to Prevent Spread of Gypsy Moth
Which Damages Trees.

Despite the reported scarcity of Christmas trees as a result of the ban put on the shipment of greens and small trees in certain districts in New England by the department of agriculture, where the gypsy moth is ravaging, there will be ample to supply all needs at prices no higher than usual.

It was first thought that this quarantine would so limit the supply as to make the price prohibitive, and much concern was felt by children and adults as well, until the federal horticultural board put at rest the alarm by issuing a statement containing the information that the ban affected only certain restricted centers not large enough to make any difference in the supply.

So far as the order affects this immediate section there was a very little occasion for alarm, as the greater portion of the supply of Christmas trees and greens come from Michigan, which is not included in the quarantine section.

The action of the department of agriculture was taken to prevent the spread of the gypsy moth, which is doing considerable damage to the trees in the quarantined section of the New England states. Owing to its destructive propensities, the department is using every endeavor to confine its operation to the affected section in the hope of destroying it. The forestry division has a force of men at work and it is thought the scourge can soon be overcome.

Local dealers entertain no misgivings as to the quality of the supply available for the coming holiday season. Orders have been put in and when the time arrives everyone will be able to secure decorations at prices similar to those prevailing during the past seasons.

THIEVES IN MILROY.

The Milroy Press comments on the petty thievery that is going on in the town of Milroy. The Press says that reports continue to come in on lap robes, buggy whips and other valuables being taken from vehicles left on the streets. The Press suggests that street lights would serve to abate the evil to some extent.

MEMBERSHIP ON INCREASE

Business Girls Club is Organized
Within Rushville Christian Association, Recently Conceived.

IS ALPHA PHI KAPPA CLUB

Association Club Room is Furnished
By Individual Donations—Advisory Board Meets Monthly.

The membership of the Rushville Christian Association, which was recently organized for the purpose of raising the ideals of the boys and girls of Rushville, has increased from twelve to twenty-three.

The organizers have been active and hope to make it a thriving and healthy association which will serve the purpose for which it is intended. Already a business girls' club has been organized within the association. It will be known as the Alpha Phi Kappa club.

The headquarters of the association are in the north room of the new Logan building at the corner of Main and Fourth streets. It is intended to arrange the program of events so that room will be in use about every night in the week.

For the present the Boy Scouts of the First Presbyterian church have the use of the club room on Monday evening. On Tuesday night a Bible class is held there. Friday night is recreation night when games and other amusements are indulged in. On Saturday of this week Miss Robinson's class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school will hold an exchange in the room.

The room has been furnished by individual donations. The blinds for the room were donated by Miss Parrish of the Biederwolf party, which is now in Hamilton, Ohio. The piano was furnished by John A. Spurrier and the floor finish by G. P. McCarty.

The association is supported by individual monthly subscriptions. Three young women have been appointed to collect the subscriptions the first of each month. The three collectors are Laverne Davis, Ellen Worsham and Laura Holden.

The regular meeting of the advisory board was held at the club room Monday. The association by-laws calls for a meeting of the advisory board the first Monday of each month. The members of the advisory board are: Prof. J. H. Scholl, superintendent of the schools; J. T. Arbuckle, member of the school board; Dr. J. B. Kinsinger; the Rev. J. B. Meacham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; the Rev. C. M. Yeum, pastor of the Main Street Christian church; Mrs. A. L. Stewart and Mrs. T. W. Betker.

The workers of the association are Jessie Kitchen, Mrs. Harry Kramer, Edith Holden and Katherine Petry.

ORGANIZE BRANCH.

Clifford S. Lee, formerly of Rushville, who is assistant secretary and field agent for the Indiana Shippers and Manufacturers Association, is now engaged in organizing a branch of association in Evansville. He went to Evansville from Terre Haute where he organized a branch. He has been successful in the undertaking in Fort Wayne, Muncie and other cities.

WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Wednesday. Colder Wednesday and in extreme north portion tonight.

The Knights of Pythias will meet at the hall tomorrow morning at ten o'clock and attend the funeral of Greely G. Mauzy, in a body.

PLANS THUS FAR ONLY TENTATIVE

Meetings Are Still Being Held Looking Toward Federation of Charities in Rushville.

VERY MUCH WORK TO BE DONE

Another meeting looking toward the federation of the charity forces of the city was held yesterday afternoon but the plans are still tentative and nothing definite can be announced yet. It was planned to hold another conference either this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon when it was thought final organization might be perfected.

There are a number of committees to be named, the two principal ones being the advisory board and the executive committee. Since these are very important offices it was not desired that the appointments should be made hastily. At the meeting yesterday afternoon a representative of each church, together with the ministers and representatives of other organizations interested in charity, were invited to be present.

MILLER'S SINGING PRAISED.

B. F. Miller of this city, who sang at the Men's Big Meeting at English's opera house in Indianapolis Sunday afternoon, enchanted the audience as few singers there seldom ever did. Newspaper accounts say his singing was a feature and that the audience hummed the choruses.

Mrs. Ed Swain of Shelbyville underwent an operation for tumor this morning at the Sexton sanatorium.

"Our Personal Guarantee to all Skin Sufferers"

Lytle's Drug Store. Rushville.

We have been in business in this town for some time, and we are looking to build up trade by always advising our patrons right.

So when we tell you that we have found the eczema remedy and that we stand back of it with the manufacturer's iron clad guarantee, backed by ourselves you can depend upon it that we are not giving you advice in order to sell a few bottles of medicine to a few sufferers. We have come to know that it will help our business if we help our patients.

We have in stock and sell all the well known skin remedies. But we will say this: If you are suffering from any kind of skin trouble, eczema, pruritus, rash or better, we want you to try a full size bottle of D. D. D. Prescription. And, if it does not do the work, this bottle will cost you nothing. You alone to judge.

Again and again we have seen how a few drops of this simple wash applied to the skin, takes away the itch, instantly. And the cures all seem to be permanent.

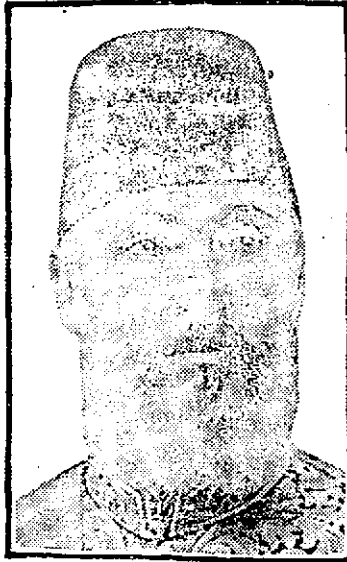

D. D. D. Prescription made by the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago, is composed of thymol, glycerine, oil of wintergreen and other healing, soothing, cooling ingredients. And if you are just crazy with itch, you will feel cooled and cooled, the itch absolutely washed away the moment you applied this D. D. D.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommending this remedy to a skin sufferer here and there and we want you to try it now on our positive no-pay guarantee.

TEWFIK PASHA

Ottoman Ambassador at London
Declined Post as Peace Envoy.

Constantinople, Dec. 10.—The departure of the Turkish delegates for the Balkan peace conference in London has been postponed until Thursday. The delay is due to the refusal of Tewfik Pasha, the Ottoman ambassador at London, to act as the premier member of the mission. The cabinet has substituted Nabl Bey, the Turkish ambassador at Rome, for the recalcitrant envoy at London.

AUSTRIANS FACING AN ARMY SENSATION

Minister of War and Chief of Staff Resign.

London, Dec. 10.—Preparations for the peace conference and ambassadorial meeting at St. James are going on apace here and the diplomats chose to look upon the belligerent attitude of Austria and Serbia as assumed more for effect than anything else.

Vienna, Dec. 10.—The resignation of General Von Duffenberg, the minister of war, has been accepted by the emperor, who has appointed General Von Krobantin to succeed him. The latter was the undersecretary of war. Field Marshal Schemm, the chief of the Austro-Hungarian general staff, also has resigned. Baron Von Hoetzendorf has been appointed as his successor.

The news of the war minister's resignation caused the greatest sensation, coming as it does at a time of such uncertainty as to Austria's attitude toward Serbia. So far there has been no official explanation of the reasons for the resignation. Atop of this news, which indicates that there has been some serious upheaval in the management of Austria's army, comes the word that bitterness toward Austria has so increased in Serbia that the press of the little nation is frankly discussing war and daring Austria to move her troops gathered along the border land of Serbia. The Serbian government has protested to Austria at the arrest of many Serbs visiting Austria-Hungary on business, who have been arrested as spies.

The Helgrade Pravda says: "If Austria desires war with Serbia, let it come. It will be the most bitter fight in history. Every Serbian, man and woman, young or old, will take part in the war and Austria will have to exterminate the entire nation before conquering it."

BIG GUN LET GO

Fourteen-inch Cannon Exploded at Proving Ground.

New York, Dec. 10.—A big fourteen-inch gun, fresh from the government gun factory at Watervliet arsenal and receiving its first test, blew up at the Sandy Hook proving grounds. Three men, two officers and an enlisted ordnance soldier, were within a few feet of the monster weapon, and although fragments weighing as much as a thousand pounds shot on all sides of them, not a man was injured.

The gun itself weighed about fifty tons, but as it was of the disappearing type the machinery and carriage brought the weight up to something like 250 tons. The projectile fired weighed 1,660 pounds and the full charge of smokeless powder was 340 pounds.

Eager to Get Back to Washington. Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—United States Senator John W. Kern, one of the attorneys for the defense in the dynamite case, will not remain here to hear the verdict of the jury regarding his forty-one clients, who are on trial. As soon as he has made his argument to the jury, which, according to present indications, will be during the first week in January, Senator Kern will leave for Washington.

Auto Caught by Fast Train. Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 10.—Abraham L. Shambaugh, aged sixty-five, was seriously injured when his automobile was struck by a fast train on the Washburn railroad. His head was crushed and it is believed he was injured internally.

ENGLAND URGES TREATY RIGHTS

Formal Protest Against Favoring American Ships.

IT MAY REQUIRE ARBITRATION

That Clause in the Panama Canal Bill Giving to American Coasting Vessels Free Passage Through Canal, and to Which Great Britain Objected at the Time, Now Is Made the Subject of Grave Diplomatic Representations.

Washington, Dec. 10.—In a lengthy statement to Secretary of State Knox, James Bryce, ambassador from Great Britain, has made a formal demand upon the government of the United States either to repeal the act of congress granting free passage through the Panama canal to American ships engaged in coastwise trade or the submission of the controversy to arbitration.

The statement, which bears the signature of Sir Edward Grey, British minister of foreign affairs, is an amplification of the original note of protest presented by A. Mitchell Innes, British charge d'affaires, on July 8 last. It endeavors to establish by argument the soundness of the British contention that the legislation favoring American ships is in violation of the treaty rights of Great Britain with regard to the Panama canal.

The note further gives warning that another protest will be forthcoming from Great Britain if it is held by the government of the United States that the disbarment from the use of the canal of ships in which railroads under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission have an interest and ships whose owners may be adjudged guilty of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. The note states that the British government now assumes that these two clauses do not apply to or affect British ships.

In regard to arbitration it is stated that the British government has taken cognizance of the fact that many persons of note in the United States—whose opinions are entitled to great weight—hold that the act of congress in question does not infringe the treaty obligations of the United States, and therefore it is declared the British government is perfectly willing to submit the question to arbitration if the United States prefers. This significant sentence is added, however:

"A reference to arbitration would be rendered unnecessary if the government of the United States should be prepared to take such steps as would remove the objections to the act which his majesty's government has stated."

Though neither the president nor secretary of state have ever made any declaration as to whether the United States would be willing to submit the controversy over canal tolls to arbitration, it has been generally assumed that this government would refuse to arbitrate the dispute with Great Britain.

Sir Edward Grey, in the note presented to Mr. Knox, hastens to deny that the British government is attempting to deny the right of the United States to grant subsidies to its shipping interests and thus deprive it of the same rights enjoyed by other nations and which will send subsidized vessels through the Panama canal.

The note concludes with the statement that Great Britain appreciates the emotion with which the opening of the canal is looked forward to by citizens of the United States, and that it is only with the greatest reluctance that it has felt compelled to raise these objections to the act of congress regarding tolls. The objections, it is declared, have been confined within the narrowest possible limits, and Great Britain recognizes, it is stated in the fullest manner, the right of the United States to control the canal.

Ambassador Bryce presented this document to Secretary Knox at his residence and it is expected that the next step will be the presentation of the case of the United States in a note from Secretary Knox to Ambassador Bryce.

Sherman Simpson on Trial.

Boonville, Ind., Dec. 10.—The trial of Sherman Simpson, aged twenty-six, charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Benjamin Dorsey, aged fifty-five, is in progress in the Warrick circuit court. Dorsey was a farmer, who lived near Tennyson. He and Simpson quarreled over a team of horses. Simpson's plea is self-defense.

er of the Syracuse, New York, local or iron workers, on the stand denied any knowledge of dynamiting. He explained letters passing between him and J. J. McNamara from 1908 to 1911 as referring simply to a plan he had formed of getting two or three men on a job of the American Bridge company at Syracuse for the purpose of proving that the company was violating the New York law by working its men more than eight hours a day.

The district attorney then read from a number of letters that he had written to McNamara and from replies from McNamara that he admitted he had received. One of these letters from Phillips under date of March 28, 1911, read in part:

"I think something ought to be done and there is no better place to do it. A great many of our brothers are anxious for something to happen. Of course we would have to have help. It wouldn't do to bring the matter up here. I will let you know later on when the thing is ripe. I offered to look after it if the local would pay expenses, but they do not seem to be interested."

To this letter McNamara replied in part:

"I think you speak a little too plainly in your letters. A great many people may read them."

NEW SECRET OF THE AIR.

Expert Discovers How Birds Remain Motionless in Air Currents.

An important advance is considered to have been made in the science of aviation by Joseph Cousin, who for some time past has been recognized as an eminent French authority on the laws of flight and now asserts that he has discovered a hitherto unknown law, which he calls that of "presentation."

This, he declares, is an essential, although hitherto unsuspected, principle in the motion of any body in a fluid medium, such as a bird in the air or a fish in water, and it explains the problem of how birds remain motionless and stationary in a strong current of air and also fly at a very high speed with a small expenditure of energy.

"Presentation," he says, consists of special adaptation both in the form of a flying body and the manner in which it is offered to the direction of the current. It acts by causing the fluid medium to form a counter pressure behind the body actually stronger than that opposed to it in front, thus enormously assisting the progress of the body.

"Once this principle of the formation of a counter pressure by guiding and directing the air current shall be fully recognized and applied in the construction of aeroplanes," says M. Cousin, "the result will be almost perfect security and an immense increase in speed."

SILENCE IS GOLDEN. ANOTHER MAXIM SUPPLIES THE TEXT.

To Mr. Hiram Maxim: Sir—We'll thank you if you will Your silence at once transfer To keep some persons still. Full eighty million freemen cry That silence they will gladly buy. So bring your new contraption, Hiram, And we will pay the bill.

Oh, come and put a stopper on That noisome man Who bids all human joy begone— The vau-de-vill-an! And, Hiram, there is work for you Upon another nuisance, too. Who doesn't know his season's through— The winter baseball fan.

O Hiram, there's a girl who dwells Within the flat above The every cursed minute yells A song that's all of love! O mighty Hiram, grant me this: Please hurry up and meet that miss And plug her facial orifice As with a boxing glove!

Yes, Hiram, in March you'll sell a lot Of silencers, I'll bet. Down where the office seeker's got Poor Woodrow in a fret. He'll hand you out a handsome crown If with your silencer you'll drown That dreadful din within his town. "Well, what's the job I get?" —John O'Keefe in New York World.

BULGARS' THIRD ELEVATION TO POWER, AMONG WORLD NATIONS

Thrice Risen From the Oppressed and the Lowly Masses. Past Territory Greater Than New Bulgaria —Is Likely to Be.

THE quick ascendancy of Bulgaria into the society of powerful nations is the third evolution which has elevated the Bulgars from among the oppressed and the lowly masses. Twice before Bulgaria has existed as a free and independent nation, and each time she has known the glories of worldwide influence. In the past her territory was far greater than the present Bulgaria and perhaps greater than will be the new Bulgaria recreated from the tumbling ruins of the Ottoman empire.

Bulgarian traditions extend to A. D. 679, when a tribe called Bulgarians appeared from the direction of the Danube, under the leadership of Asparuch. They were not Slavs, and history has not determined if they were Urians, Finnish, Tartars or Turks.

But these Bulgarians who settled south of the Danube were a powerful tribe, and their desire to conquer was backed by a strong system of state organization. Asparuch knew how to organize his forces into a government, and it was under him that the first semblance of government appeared among the Bulgarians. His people became military and accustomed to discipline and to leadership. Those factors were absent from the Balkan Slavonic tribes and were necessary for the single tribal, territorial and political whole found in the Bulgarians under Asparuch.

This state organization was effected on the ruins of numerous tribes which had lived in the Balkan peninsula for generations. History says the Slavs reached and settled that country first in the third century and that even then they found the ruins of towns and roads left by the Romans. But those early occupants of the territory left no descendants, and the first traditions of the land really sprang from the Bulgarians under Asparuch.

Adoption of Christianity.

An epoch in the early career of the Bulgars was marked when they and the Slavs, in the reign of Boris, adopted Christianity in 864. This faith was adopted for purely political reasons, and it had a great influence internally and externally.

Internally it brought about a close union between the Bulgars and the Slavs, and by means of a common literature it placed on an equality the habits, customs and language of both. Externally Bulgaria appears as an empire in the congress of nations. On the geographical maps of that day Bulgaria is shown as an empire extending across the Balkan peninsula and down nearly to the Bosphorus.

Following the adoption of Christianity there is no mention in historical records of tribal or racial division between the invaders and the conquerors. The conquerors contented themselves with establishing a great Bulgarian state, and they adopted the language of a mixed mass of people and assimilated the races.

Simeon the Great, son of Boris, became the first czar of Bulgaria, and with him occurs the first mention of such a title. At the same time the first Bulgarian archbishop was created, a patriarch, and there history records the division between and co-operation of the state and church. These titles, however, were not recognized by the Byzantine empire, then the greatest on the earth, until the reign of Peter, son of Simeon.

Arrogant In Success.

During Peter's reign the Bulgarians prospered, but there was a weakness in its external affairs. It failed to make allies. It became arrogant in its success, and in the succeeding reign of Boris II. it antagonized the Byzantine empire, and the Greek general, John Tsymich, took to Constantinople.

ROOM WITH GLASS FLOOR.

American Artist's Decorative Scheme For an Aeroplane Illusion.

Montfort Coolidge, a New York painter in Paris, has evolved a novel idea of room decoration for the villa of Count Gabbi, a young and wealthy aviator at Rimini, Italy. The panels will represent landscapes of southern Europe as seen from an aeroplane.

The ceiling of the room will be colored to resemble the sky, while in the middle of the floor will be set a large panel of glass. Some distance below the glass and lighted electrically from the sides will be fixed a painting resembling the Italian Alps seen from an immense height.

The illusion of flying in an aeroplane will thus be given to the occupants of the room, which will be used for musical entertainments. This remarkable scheme has, it is asserted, sound artistic principles. Mr. Coolidge explains that, the paintings being below the level of the eye, it can be enjoyed in comfort while listening to the music, but a decorated ceiling is far too high to be properly appreciated in these circumstances.

Mr. Coolidge asserts that this idea is a development of the methods of the Romans, who adorned their floors, as well as their walls, with mosaics.

nople the crown of the enemy of the Byzantines, Boris II., and deprived Damjan, the Bulgarian patriarch, of his see.

Bulgaria at that time lacked farseeing statesmen. She became a selfish power within herself and against all others. There was competition for emolument within herself, and the Byzantines did not find great difficulty in destroying this disorganized state.

In the year 1018 the Emperor Basil of Byzantium, known as "Slayer of the Bulgarians," put an end to Bulgarian existence, particularly in the west, toward the Adriatic. This war continued for twenty-eight years, and then for 107 years Bulgaria and the Bulgarians remained under the rule of the Byzantines.

Weakness Develops.

Byzantium, however, was weak in herself. She did not continue in a position to cope with dangerous and difficult problems since her own rulers were not firmly fixed upon their seats and because of internal jealousies and dissensions. Here it was said that graft weakened the Byzantines, just as it is said to have made their successors, the Turks, weak in the present war with the Balkan allies.

Bolgars Asen and Peter, descendants of the first czars of Bulgaria, made a successful revolution in Tirnovo in the early part of the twelfth century, obtained independence of the Bulgars and proclaimed the second Bulgarian empire.

Asen I. and his successors, notably Asen II., greatly increased the powers and territory of the second Bulgaria, waging victorious wars with the Greeks and the crusaders and extending the boundaries of the empire still more widely than in the time of Boris II. They annexed Moesia, Thracia, Macedonia and Albania as far as Durazzo, which is now the Adriatic port of contention between the Serbians and the Austrians.

But the second Bulgarian empire was as weak as the first in lacking any definite state policy. Apparently its leaders were fighting for aggrandizement without knowing why. They formed no alliances. There was no higher inspiration than rehabilitation and revenge which prompted their warlike moves. Therefore it was in the position of being strong and aggressive when the throne was held by a strong and aggressive czar and weak and ineffectual when the ruler was incapable.

Engaged In Many Wars.

The unstable internal condition of the country was aggravated by the many wars and expeditions which were carried on without definite purpose. These weakened it and prepared it for catastrophe. These facts led to the establishment of a strong Serbian kingdom, which made its capital at Uskub, under the Serbian Czar Dushan, in the first half of the fourteenth century. This division of power made it easy for the Turks to conquer Bulgaria and later the whole Balkan peninsula.

Bulgaria then disappeared as an independent nation for five centuries until the domination of the Turkish empire was broken down by the efforts of the Russians and the Roumanians. Then the Berlin treaty gave Bulgaria practical liberty, and in 1908 Ferdinand declared the absolute independence of the Bulgarians and proclaimed himself czar. Until then he had been a prince. The title czar is clearly traced through 1,800 years from Caesar. One form of it is Kaiser.

For nearly 400 years the Bulgarians have been preparing for the war with Turkey. The result of this training is seen in the third appearance of the great Bulgarian empire under Czar Ferdinand.

PLEADS FOR THE SKUNK.

Living's High Cost Reduced by It's Efforts, Zoologist Says.

While the importation of elk into Pennsylvania has caused hunters to awaken to the fact that there are no laws that prohibit the killing of these animals, because there has not been for many years an elk in the state's forests, Economic Zoologist H. A. Surface suggests that the game laws should be extended to provide protection for an animal which to his mind is even more important. It is the skunk.

"There is no animal more valuable than the skunk," said Dr. Surface.

"The economic aspect of the utility of the skunk was well illustrated this year by the potato crop. If the state had enough skunks potatoes would be selling at reasonable prices. The skunk, in a measure, will help solve the high cost of living.

"The skunk likes white grub, and they never were more plentiful than this year. The grubs have done much damage. They are the larvae of the May beetle, or June bug. These grubs eat the roots of grass and attack the roots of the potatoes.

"With more skunks there would have been fewer grubs, and potatoes would not be selling at 90 cents a bushel."

A Big Difference in Quality No Difference in Price

That's What You Will Say When You See Our Storm Buggies

It does not take an expert to detect the superior quality of our storm buggies. You can see at a glance they are finished much better, and are constructed in a way that leaves no doubt in your mind about the quality. Then the style is different. We do not wait for the other fellow to advance the styles and then follow them. We are continually showing the new styles and you will say when you see our line of storm buggies, that as far as style is concerned, they are certainly in a class by themselves. If you want a buggy that is different, better and at the right price we want to see you and you want too see our buggies.

Home Merchants Best.

Before our citizens send large amounts away from home to larger cities and mail order houses, why not look around the home stores and see what the home merchant has done for you?

Our home merchants are always progressive. They put in larger stocks of holiday and winter goods than ever before. They study the market carefully, buy of responsible wholesale houses and get goods that are both stylish and substantial, good for permanent wear.

The excuse is sometimes made that the larger city has a larger assortment of goods. But this larger assortment is commonly of use to but few buyers. The great department store, for the sake of its reputation for completeness, has to carry a large amount of very costly goods to meet the whims of wealthy people. If you want a parlor rug costing from $10 to $100, it is of but little use to you that the metropolitan store has a full line of $1,000 orientals.

Furthermore, the carrying of these great assortments is an expense that all has to come out of the consumer. It means sacrifice sales when goods become out of date, and the original price has to be high enough to pay for all these losses.

The supreme advantage of buying at home is that you can do the shopping at your leisure, and always see the goods personally. The purchase made by mail is a reckless plunge into a grab-bag of unknown contents. Even when on an excursion to the great city you see the goods personally, your time is usually so limited that you don't have the opportunity for consideration afforded by the leisurely visit to the home store. The results are apt to be correspondingly disappointing.

The bigger the metropolitan emporium, the more machine like is the attention you get. The clerk or proprietor at home usually is in a position to give you some useful information about the thing you are buying. The metropolitan store employs a vast force of clerks, many of them of slight intelligence, who can give you no light about the thing you are buying, other than to tell you whether it is in vogue of the moment or not. Intelligent purchases are not made in that manner.

Defenseless.

The Jacksonian offers no defense for its unwarranted attack on the civil service which it termed "farce in practice." Rather it replies in glittering generalities and hoots at the Republican's "attempt" to defend President Taft for placing fourth-class postmasters under the civil service.

The Republican did not offer any defense for President Taft's order, for there seems to be no occasion for any. The Republican merely cited the fact that Grover Cleveland, the only Democratic president since the inception of civil service, was a hearty advocate of the merit system, and said in his message to congress in December, 1896, that fourth-class postmasters ought to be in the classified service.

The Republican said further: "He explained that he did not include them in his 'blanket order' of that year because he was not certain that the civil service law authorized him to do it. This law has been interpreted with more liberality as the years have gone by, and no one so far has questioned the authority of President Taft to extend the law to these postmasters."

That was not the issue. The Jacksonian does not deny that it received the two tirades on civil service that it published from some one higher up, who evidently has charge of the tearing away the fence that protects the plum tree. Probably the Jacksonian has some more of that first-hand copy concerning the "farce in civil service," which it will most likely not publish now in the light of recent developments.

"What does it matter that Grover Cleveland said or did," says the Jacksonian. And further on, "To us the acts of Grover Cleveland in attempting to broaden the scope of civil service are viewed with the same intelligence as are those of any Republican president."

Surely enough. We have the admission of the Democratic organ at last. If all of the fourth-class postmasters had been placed under civil service by Cleveland, there would have been no objection from the Jacksonian. But since they were put in the classified service by Taft—understand, we are not trying to justify Taft's act, because it needs no justification since Mr. Cleveland said he believed all fourth-class postmasters should be in the service—it is wholly bad and nefarious.

That leads us to raise the question if the Jacksonian would not be a most violent defender of civil service if men in the service were ALL Democrats. The Jacksonian never saw what an evil the merit system was until Woodrow Wilson was elected and a chance for a job at any cost was apparent. The Jacksonian evidently has been suffering from some sort of hallucination all these years, because it has never warned its worthy readers against the terrible merit system.

The Indianapolis Star continually harps about the "bosses" in the Republican party, without giving specific names. Please note that the Star always speaks of "bosses," in the plural—there must be a bunch of them. But of all the parties that ever existed in this Republic the Progressive party leads them all when it comes to having a boss. Please note that "boss" here is in the singular. That party has only one boss and his name is Theodore Roosevelt. Nothing is more dangerous to a Republic than a one-man power—it smacks of monarchy. While Roose-

The army men think a foreign invasion is likely, but it is more likely that they will have to be satisfied with the glory to be obtained by keeping the lawns well mowed about the forts.

Gov. Wilson has to pay excess postage on most of the letters he gets, and it is strange that the office seekers are not bright enough to send him "collect" telegrams.

Some of the Suffragette organizations are going to join the Inauguration parade, but the Barnum & Bailey menagerie has not yet consented to march.

The national law-makers propose gloriously to refute the charge that they are a "do-nothing Congress," by appropriating more money than ever before.

According to a special dispatch from Washington, one or two congressmen were listening part of the time when the President's message was being read.

SCHOOLMATES MEET AFTER FORTY YEARS

Tom Green and Lon Hooten Attended District School Together in Center Township.

THEY RECOGNIZE EACH OTHER

T. M. Green walked into the court room late yesterday afternoon to file a final report with Judge Blair. He noticed a man in the court room who persisted in staring at him. Mr. Green admitted in his own mind that he looked a bit familiar.

Mr. Green transacted his business and started out of the court room when the stranger approached him and stuck out his hand.

"Hello Tom," he said.

"Hello Lon," replied Mr. Green, for the man's name came to him in the instant.

It developed that the stranger was Lon Hooten of Hancock county, one of the defendants in the Greeley-Hooten case now being heard in court. Mr. Green and Mr. Hooten attended the old district school together up in Center township forty years ago, and have not seen one another since.

President Taft will be seen in a picture at the Palace theater tonight. The picture is entitled, "An Animated Weekly," and is of great educational value. "When Hearts Are Trumps," a Nestor drama, will be the other film. Friday night a benefit show for the Loyal Daughters of the Main Street Christian church will be given. At that time an Imp two reel feature picture entitled, "Haman Hearts" will be the offering.

Of the double musical attraction which William Morris, the noted manager of Harry Lander, Sirota and other international attractions, will present at the Shubert-Murat, Indianapolis, next Friday and Saturday, December 13-14, including Saturday matinee, consisting of "Wood Nymphs" and "The Barnyard Romeo," which are used to exploit the versatility of the famous stars—Annette Kellermann and Jefferson De Angelis the latter piece is perhaps the most unusual. "The Barnyard Romeo" is said to be the liveliest, most gallus bird that will roost in this city for many a day. This also applies to the Hen Pheasant, the Goose, the Cat, the Fox, the Mice, the Hares and all other flocks of birds and beasts which foregather and disport themselves in a typical barnyard scene, for all the actors are costumed to resemble these creatures. The production is staged by Ben Teal, that veteran stage director, and the result is that this musical satire of farmyard domesticity has the always-on-the-go swing, the quick stepping from one kaleidoscopic picture to another, the perfect rhythmic coupled with big ensembles which make for enduring success. Everything goes with a biff, bang, each brisk singing and dancing number succeeds another with a speed that makes an audience reel with a giddy joy at the instated speed laws. In "The Barnyard Romeo," Jefferson DeAngelis and Dorothy Vaughan enjoy themselves as the Rooster (the Romeo), and the Goose respectively, and are assisted by Dorothy Webb, as the Hen Pheasant; Ernest Stanton as the Fox, Bert Kallmar as the Cat, and Miss Kellermann and G. Molasso as Birds of Paradise. There is a big, strikingly handsome chorus. Miss Kellermann appears in "Wood Nymphs" a beautiful woodland fantasy set to music, in which she introduces her new classical dances and wonderful diving feats, assisted by G. Molasso and a ballet of English dancing girls.

FAIRLY WALLOW IN COURT HOUSE HEAT

Officials Turn Steam Radiators Wide Open and Forget About Days of Cold.

NEW BOILERS WORKING GOOD

The long awaited sizzle of steam heat gently working its way through the valve on the radiators in the court house was a common sound in the court house today. Officials fairly wallowed in heat, so delighted were they that they no longer had to depend on coal oil stoves to keep them warm.

The boilers were all installed by yesterday and yesterday afternoon the engineer at the heating plant began to fire up. All day the occupants of the court house longingly glanced at the tall smoke stack, and late Monday afternoon they were rewarded for their endurance by the tiny rings of smoke that occasionally came from the top of the stack. All radiators were turned wide open today so as to get the court house heated up once more.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the St. Paul M. E. church will meet at the home of Mrs. D. D. VanOsdel in Third street Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. This will be the regular Christmas meeting.

Edward G. Kessler, a well known farmer of this county, and Miss Nora Theobald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Theobald, were married today, at the home of the bride's parents in Adams, Decatur county. They will reside on the Kessler farm.

The Root of Evil

By THOMAS DIXON

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

"Oh, Jim, dear," she faltered, "you know that would be madness!"
"Certainly it's madness, the madness of a great love! Come, why do you hesitate?"
The lines of her body relaxed and she began to sob softly. The man waited in silence for her to speak.
"I've done you harm enough, dearest," she said at last. "I can't do this."

A STITCH IN TIME

Rushville People Should Not Neglect Their Kidneys.

No kidney ailment is unimportant. Don't overlook the slightest backache or urinary irregularity. Nature may be warning you of approaching dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Kidney disease is seldom fatal if treated in time, but neglect may pave the way. Don't neglect a lame or aching back another day. Don't ignore dizzy spells, irregular or discolored urine, headaches, weariness or depression. If you feel you need kidney help begin using the reliable, time-tried remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. For 50 years, Doan's have been found effective. Endorsed by Rushville people.

Mrs. L. B. Leeds, 904 W. Second St., Rushville, Ind., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they are just fine. I was subject to dizzy and nervous spells and my kidneys were weak, causing backache. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family with good results, so I took them. They promptly cured me and I have not been bothered since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

"And your thought is only of me. Nan?" he asked with piercing intensity.

"And of myself," she acknowledged brokenly. "I couldn't do such an insane, vulgar thing."

"I didn't think you could," was the bitter response.

"All I ask," she pleaded, "is to hear you say the words that you love me now—just as I am with all my faults."
"Well, I shall not speak them," he answered savagely. "Your husband is the master of millions, but I am the master of something bigger—I am the master of myself. I will not play a second fiddle to your little husband."

The dark head dropped lower. When she lifted it at last two despairing tears were shining in her eyes.
"I understand, Jim," she said simply. "We will go on as we have. I'll wait in silence."

He rose and lifted her to her feet. The voices of the youngsters rang up the mountain's side.

"No, we can't go on like this now, Nan," he said with quiet strength. "The silence has been broken between us. Your husband is my friend and from today our lives must lie apart. It's the only way."

She extended her hand and he pressed it tenderly. Her voice was the merest sobbing whisper when she spoke: "Yes, Jim, I suppose it's the only way."

CHAPTER XXIV.

The White Messenger.

IN spite of Bivens' protest Stuart returned to New York on the first train the morning after the coaching party reached the house.

"Stay a week longer," the little man urged, "and I'll go with you. We'll go together, all of us, in my car. I'm getting worse here every day. I've got to get back to my doctors in New York."

"I'm sorry, Cal," he answered quickly, "but I must leave at once."

Nan allowed him to go without an effort to change his decision. A strange calm had come over her. She drove to the station with him in silence. He began to wonder what it meant.

As he stepped from the machine she extended her hand, with a tender smile, and said in low tones:

"Until we meet again."

He pressed it gently and was gone.

He reached New York thoroughly exhausted and blue, but the sight of Harriet seated on the stoop of the old home by the square watching a crowd of children play brought a smile back to his haggard face.

"They've come to honor me with their good wishes on my voyage," she said.

"What voyage?" he asked in surprise.

"Oh, you didn't know. I've an engagement to sing on the continent this summer. The news came the day you left. Isn't that fine? I sail next week."

A sudden idea struck him.

"Let me go with you, girlie?"

"Oh, Jim, if you only would, I'd be in heaven!"

"I will!" he said with decision.

"You've booked your passage?"

"Yes, but I'll change it to suit you."

He found business which required a week and booked his passage with Harriet on a Cunarder which sailed in ten days. A week later Nan and Bivens returned to their New York home. The papers were full of stories of his failing health.

Two days after her arrival Nan telephoned to Stuart.

"You must come up to see Cal tonight," she said earnestly. "He is asking for you."

"Is he really dangerously ill?" Stuart interrupted.

"It's far more serious than the papers suspect. You'll come?"

"Yes, early tomorrow morning. I've an important engagement tonight that will keep me until 12 o'clock. I'm sailing for Europe day after tomorrow."

A sudden click at the other end and he was cut off. His experienced ear told him it was not an accident.

It was just dawn when Stuart's telephone rang and he leaped from bed, startled at the unusual call.

"Well, well," he cried in quick, impatient tones, "who is it? What is the matter?"

CLEARING HOUSE COMBINE FOUND

Nearest Suggestion of So-Called Money Trust.

STRUCK A PROMISING LEAD

When the Pujo Committee Disclosed the Fact That Concerted Co-Operation Exists Between Clearing Houses at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Louisville, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Columbus, Its Members Began to Perk Up.

Washington, Dec. 10.—That it will recommend the incorporation of clearing house associations and probably governmental regulation of these institutions, the money trust committee of the house indicated pretty clearly in the course of its hearing. Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, repeatedly asked witnesses if any objection could be made to the compulsory incorporation of these powerful banking agencies, and the replies he received from well-known bankers from Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were not unfavorable to the idea.

Also the committee's counsel frequently questioned witnesses in regard to the advisability of putting a limitation on some powers of the clearing houses, notably the power to discount clearances for weak banks and thus practically drive them out of business. The form of this limitation as suggested by counsel for the committee was the requirement of final approval by state banking authorities in the case of state banks and trust companies and of the comptroller of the currency in the case of national banks. The answers given by witnesses to these questions were for the most part opposed to all attempts at government regulation or supervision.

The most interesting disclosures related to the Pittsburgh Clearing House association. It was shown that the association had not only adopted a rule regarding the business affairs of members and non-members of the Pittsburgh association, but also had co-operated with clearing houses in five other cities to enforce the same rules on the banks in those industrial centers. These rules included a uniform commission on out-of-town drafts and collections, and also the power to fix the rate of interest to be paid by the members and non-member banks that cleared through the institutions having direct affiliations with the clearing house.

The cities besides Pittsburgh which are involved in this concerted clearing house movement, are Cincinnati, Louisville, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Columbus. The intimation plainly conveyed by questions asked by the committee's counsel was that the co-operation among these six cities within a somewhat limited area was for the purpose of strengthening the hold of each individual clearing house on the banking facilities of each city by foreclosing the possibility of customers in one city doing their banking business with institutions in a nearby city. The disclosure of this concerted movement was the nearest suggestion that the committee has yet obtained of a so-called "money trust."

THE SHORT WAY

Program of Language Association Uses Simplified Spelling.

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—Men who know all about words, their history and relation to ancient and modern languages will be here in great numbers Dec. 26, 27 and 28 to attend the eighteenth annual meeting of the central division of the Modern Language Association of America.

The meeting will be held in Indianapolis at the invitation of Indiana university, Purdue university, DePauw university, Wabash college, Earlham college and Butler college. Eminent instructors from the leading universities of the United States will take part.

A feature of the printed program is its spelling, which is according to the rules and regulations of the simplified spelling board. For example, "asked" is "askt," and "executive" is "executiv." Everything is simplified except the foreign names of some of the professors and the titles of their lectures. The address of welcome will be delivered by William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana university.

Then Gave Himself Up.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IS PERPLEXING POLICE

New Jersey Couple Found Dead in Cottage.

Swarts Wood Lake, N. J., Dec. 10.—In an unoccupied cottage on the lake shore were found the bodies of Ludwig Palmer, a well-to-do builder of South Orange, and of Mrs. Barbara Rapke, a widow, of Newark. Mrs. Rapke had been killed by a bullet through the right temple and Palmer by a bullet back of the left ear, both bullets penetrating the brain.

The investigation of Coroner Coleman convinced that official that Palmer had first shot the woman and then killed himself. Neither members of the two families nor any of their friends can imagine why the man should want to commit the crime or why the woman should have been willing to permit it.

Palmer, married happily and prosperous, was well known in Orange county. Mrs. Rapke was about fifty years of age and also well-to-do. She lived on Van Buren street, Newark, with a married daughter, Mrs. Martha Wooster.

Introduced Her As Wife.

According to the story, Palmer called for Mrs. Rapke at Newark last Friday and the two started out, leaving word that they were to meet Mrs. Palmer and make a trip with her. They appeared that evening at Newton, where they spent the night, and on Saturday they came to Swarts Wood Lake, where they went to the home of John Emmons. Palmer, who knew Emmons, introduced Mrs. Rapke as his wife and they remained there for the night.

The builder and the widow left the Emmons home Monday morning. They appeared in high good humor. Nothing was heard from the couple from that time until their bodies were found in the cottage. There was not a sign of the slightest struggle anywhere. One revolver had been used and in both cases it had been held up against the flesh. Another revolver was in Palmer's pocket.

Rejected Senate Action.

Washington, Dec. 10.—By a vote of 141 to 101 the house of representatives refused to concur in the senate resolution authorizing an inquiry looking to the purchase by the government of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, now owned by Representative Jefferson Levy of New York.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Woodrow Wilson is expected home from Bermuda next Saturday.

A conference of the leaders of the new Progressive party is being held at Chicago.

The liberty bell will be sent to the Panama Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

Rumors of a serious accident reported to have befallen the Atlantic liner Mauretania proved to be unfounded.

Lieutenant General Count Teranuchi, Japanese governor general of Korea, has been appointed premier of Japan, succeeding Marquis Saionji.

It is reported that the Irish crown jewels which were stolen from Dublin castle early in July, 1907, have been replaced intact in their original position.

The infant son of Archduke Charles Francis Joseph of Austria was given seventeen names, beginning with Charles Francis Joseph Otto. His father is next heir to the throne after Franz Ferdinand.

Baroness Bertha Von Suttner of Vienna, who received the Nobel peace prize in 1905 as a result of her efforts to advance the cause of universal peace, has completed a seven-months' lecture tour in behalf of peace in this country.

WILL TALK OVER COMING SESSION

Democratic Representatives to Hold a Confab.

SOME SPEAKERSHIP GOSSIP

While Preliminary Meeting of Majority Members of Indiana House to Be Held This Week May Discuss Speakership Possibilities, It Is Believed No Decision Will Be Arrived at Until the Caucus.

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—Indications are that there will be many Democrats in the city Thursday for the conference of the Democratic members of the house, which will be held at the Denison hotel. It is thought that practically all of the ninety-four Democratic representatives will be here, and word has been sent out to county chairmen, county officials, mayors of cities and other leaders and workers to attend. Governor Elect Ralston is expected Wednesday night.

There is speculation among Democrats as to whether the conference will take up the election of a speaker of the house. The opinion prevails that this subject will not be considered formally, if at all. The question will be left until the house caucus the night before the opening of the session of the legislature. It appears to be agreed that Homer L. Cook, representative from Marion county, is the leading candidate for speaker at this time, but some Democrats are saying that it is a long time until the session opens and that no one can tell. There has been a renewal of the talk of Joseph M. Cravens of Madison and Mark Storen of Scottsburg.

It is understood to be the intention of the representatives to appoint a plunger committee at this conference. It will have charge of the distribution of jobs and the making of appointments for clerical and other positions in the house.

TANSEL MURDER TRIAL

Father and Son Facing the Court at Winchester.

Winchester, Ind., Dec. 10.—The case of the state against Charles and Ruskin Tansel, charged with second degree murder, is in progress in the Randolph circuit court here. They are charged with killing Robert N. Kroff of Greencastle, in this city, Oct. 5.

Kroff was a director of the Ohio and Indiana Stone company, and came here in September to superintend work on a road. Charles Tansel was employed by the stone company until a short time before Kroff arrived. Kroff and Tansel quarreled over some earth scoops. Tansel, with his eighteen-year-old son Ruskin, met Kroff in front of the Windsor hotel on the morning of Oct. 5. It is believed they engaged in an argument. People standing near thought the men were joking, and did not realize what had happened until the younger Tansel started running for the jail. Kroff, it is alleged, had Tansel on the ground and was administering a severe beating, when the boy, with a pocketknife, it is alleged, severed the muscles of Kroff's right arm. He then stabbed him three times in the back, according to the prosecution. A long knife blade was imbedded in his spine. Kroff died three days later and it is charged the knife wounds were the cause of his death.

Deputy Held Responsible.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Dec. 10.—The jury in the case of Marion E. Pangburn, former county treasurer, against Lewis L. Chapman and the American Surety company returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $9,822.63, the amount of the shortage, which, with the interest, amounts to $17,237.73. An appeal will be taken. The verdict was based on the theory that Chapman, as Pangburn's deputy, was responsible for the shortage.

A Conflict of Testimony.

Boonville, Ind., Dec. 10.—Robert Torrence, aged fifty-three, is not expected to recover from the effects of a bullet wound alleged to have been inflicted by Edward Rogers, aged fifty-five. Torrence asserts that it was not Rogers, but his wife who fired the shot. Rogers gave himself up. Trouble between the two men has been brewing for some months. Rogers says Torrence had been too familiar with Rogers's wife.

To Assist State Development.

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—A bill may be introduced in the legislature for a topographic map of Indiana, to aid engineering and assist in the economic development of the state. An appropriation of $5,000 will be asked. It is estimated that six years will be required for the work. State Geologist Edward Barrett and a committee of the Indiana branch of the national conservation congress are behind the movement.

Serious Poolroom Affray.

Greensburg, Ind., Dec. 10.—A fight took place in a poolroom here in which William Weeks was shot by his partner, James Smith. The bullet went through a portion of Weeks's abdomen, through his leg and dropped to the floor without seriously injuring him.

DEAD BODY MAY BE CHARLES ECK'S

Corpse Found in Trunk at Kokomo,
Believed to be That of Former
St. Paul Man.

DISAPPEARED SIX WEEKS AGO

Last Seen When he Drew Money
From Bank to Pay His Taxes.

A dead body in a trunk at Kokomo last evening is believed to be all that remains of Charles Eck of Indianapolis, formerly of near St. Paul, who disappeared several weeks ago. He was last seen in St. Paul.

The sheriff of Howard county communicated with the sheriff of Shelby county last night and it was expected that some of Eck's relatives would go to Kokomo today to ascertain whether the dead man is Eck.

Eck, it will be remembered, was formerly a resident of Shelby county, living there for several years. Later he removed to Indianapolis and it is from his home in that city that he has been missing for several weeks. He is about thirty-six years old and leaves a wife and two children.

When he disappeared he went to Shelbyville, and from there went to St. Paul, giving, before leaving home, as his intentions going to Shelbyville to pay his taxes. He went to St. Paul to withdraw a sum of money from the bank at that place, with which to pay the taxes. At the time he secured the money at the bank is the last that he has been seen by any one knowing him. The taxes were not paid by him and nothing since has been heard from him.

Attorneys have been working on his case, but have been unable to find any trace as to his present whereabouts, or as to his wanderings during his now long, unexplained, absence.

Some of his friends and relatives have held to the theory of foul play, while the report has been circulated that there had been some unpleasantness between himself and his wife, and that he had bidden farewell forever to the Hoosier State and is now living in the west.

Wherever he may be, his friends would welcome the news telling them of his newly adopted home, as it would relieve a suspense in which they have been for so many weeks now.

Miss Sue Gregg, who is in the Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis, is gradually improving and will probably be brought home in a few days.

XMAS TREES SAID TO BE PLENTIFUL

Ban on Some of New England Product Will Not Affect Local Supply.

MANY GROW IN MICHIGAN

Action Taken by Government to Prevent Spread of Gypsy Moth
Which Damages Trees.

Despite the reported scarcity of Christmas trees as a result of the ban put on the shipment of greens and small trees in certain districts in New England by the department of agriculture, where the gypsy moth is ravaging, there will be ample to supply all needs at prices no higher than usual.

It was first thought that this quarantine would so limit the supply as to make the price prohibitive, and much concern was felt by children and adults as well, until the federal horticultural board put at rest the alarm by issuing a statement containing the information that the ban affected only certain restricted centers not large enough to make any difference in the supply.

So far as the order affects this immediate section there was a very little occasion for alarm, as the greater portion of the supply of Christmas trees and greens come from Michigan, which is not included in the quarantine section.

The action of the department of agriculture was taken to prevent the spread of the gypsy moth, which is doing considerable damage to the trees in the quarantined section of the New England states. Owing to its destructive propensities, the department is using every endeavor to confine its operation to the affected section in the hope of destroying it. The forestry division has a force of men at work and it is thought the scourge can soon be overcome.

Local dealers entertain no misgivings as to the quality of the supply available for the coming holiday season. Orders have been put in and when the time arrives everyone will be able to secure decorations at prices similar to those prevailing during the past seasons.

THIEVES IN MILROY.

The Milroy Press comments on the petty thievery that is going on in the town of Milroy. The Press says that reports continue to come in on lap robes, buggy whips and other valuables being taken from vehicles left on the streets. The Press suggests that street lights would serve to abate the evil to some extent.

MEMBERSHIP ON INCREASE

Business Girls Club is Organized
Within Rushville Christian Association, Recently Conceived.

IS ALPHA PHI KAPPA CLUB

Association Club Room is Furnished
By Individual Donations—Advisory Board Meets Monthly.

The membership of the Rushville Christian Association, which was recently organized for the purpose of raising the ideals of the boys and girls of Rushville, has increased from twelve to twenty-three.

The organizers have been active and hope to make it a thriving and healthy association which will serve the purpose for which it is intended. Already a business girls' club has been organized within the association. It will be known as the Alpha Phi Kappa club.

The headquarters of the association are in the north room of the new Logan building at the corner of Main and Fourth streets. It is intended to arrange the program of events so that room will be in use about every night in the week.

For the present the Boy Scouts of the First Presbyterian church have the use of the club room on Monday evening. On Tuesday night a Bible class is held there. Friday night is recreation night when games and other amusements are indulged in. On Saturday of this week Miss Robinet's class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school will hold an exchange in the room.

The room has been furnished by individual donations. The blinds for the room were donated by Miss Parrshall of the Biederwolf party, which is now in Hamilton, Ohio. The piano was furnished by John A. Spurrier and the floor finish by G. P. McCarty.

The association is supported by individual monthly subscriptions. Three young women have been appointed to collect the subscriptions the first of each month. The three collectors are Laverne Davis, Ellen Worsham and Laura Holden.

The regular meeting of the advisory board was held at the club room Monday. The association by-laws calls for a meeting of the advisory board the first Monday of each month. The members of the advisory board are: Prof. J. H. Scholl, superintendent of the schools; J. T. Arbuckle, member of the school board; Dr. J. B. Kinsinger; the Rev. J. B. Meacham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; the Rev. C. M. Yocum, pastor of the Main Street Christian church; Mrs. A. L. Stewart and Mrs. T. W. Betker.

The workers of the association are Jessie Kitchin, Mrs. Harry Kramer, Edith Holden and Katherine Petry.

ORGANIZE BRANCH.

Clifford S. Lee, formerly of Rushville, who is assistant secretary and field agent for the Indiana Shippers and Manufacturers Association, is now engaged in organizing a branch of association in Evansville. He went to Evansville from Terre Haute where he organized a branch. He has been successful in the undertaking in Fort Wayne, Muncie and other cities.

WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Wednesday. Colder Wednesday and in extreme north portion tonight.

The Knights of Pythias will meet at the hall tomorrow morning at ten o'clock and attend the funeral of Greely G. Mauzy, in a body.

PLANS THUS FAR ONLY TENTATIVE

Meetings Are Still Being Held Looking Toward Federation of Charities in Rushville.

VERY MUCH WORK TO BE DONE

Another meeting looking toward the federation of the charity forces of the city was held yesterday afternoon but the plans are still tentative and nothing definite can be announced yet. It was planned to hold another conference either this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon when it was thought final organization might be perfected.

There are a number of committees to be named, the two principal ones being the advisory board and the executive committee. Since these are very important offices it was not desired that the appointments should be made hastily. At the meeting yesterday afternoon a representative of each church, together with the ministers and representatives of other organizations interested in charity, were invited to be present.

MILLER'S SINGING PRAISED.

B. F. Miller of this city, who sang at the Men's Big Meeting at English's opera house in Indianapolis Sunday, afternoon, enchanted the audience as few singers there seldom ever did. Newspaper accounts say his singing was a feature and that the audience hummed the choruses.

Mrs. Ed Swain of Shelbyville underwent an operation for tumor this morning at the Sexton sanatorium.
